Treasury Lists Deposits Of National Ulster County Bank

Local Bank's Frozen Deposits Placed at $2,824,000 With Unrestricted Deposits at $94,000—Treasury Estimates Depositers Will Receive Approximately 50 Per Cent When The Banks Carry Out The Plans Agreed Upon.

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP).—A total of $398,735,000 in frozen deposits is involved in the list of 376 banks for which reorganization plans have been approved by the treasury.

Of this amount, the treasury estimated today, depositors will receive approximately fifty per cent if the banks carry out the plans agreed upon and are licensed to reopen. When plans are approved, it has been explained here, the situation then is up to the banks and in some instances they have not been able to meet the conditions imposed.

A total of $31,151,000 in unrestricted deposits is held by the 376 banks.

"While frozen deposits of these national banks amount to $398,735,000 this does not mean that such a sum will be released to depositors when and if reorganization plans are acted upon and individual banks are reopened," the treasury said.

"The total represents the amount of deposits carried on the books of these institutions when conservators took charge of them after the bank holiday. It is obvious that the banks would have reopened immediately had they been able to pay 100 per cent of their deposits.

"However, it is estimated that, in most instances, depositors will receive an average of slightly better than 50 per cent of their balances when and if these unlicensed banks reopen, with additional percentages being available as slow or doubtful assets are converted into cash.

"The $31,151,000 in unrestricted deposits represents deposits made since conservators have been in charge of these institutions. Such sums are segregated under conservatorships."

Capacity Audience At Rodeo Thursday

Another near-capacity house saw the Red Horse Ranch Rodeo at the new state armory Thursday night and upon filing out of the big riding hall of the 156th Field Artillery, many spectators were heard passing very complimentary remarks about the performance.

Members of the club, who were present last night to hear the comments from patrons, were Roy Sutliff, John Matthews, Kenneth Archer and Sergeant John F. Roosa of the field artillery. They were more than pleased with the reports they heard and feel that their organization has done something worth while in bringing the western show to Kingston.

Those who have not seen the rodeo will have a chance tonight and Saturday when performences will be given at 8:15 in the evening. There will be a special matinee Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The rodeo people and Riding and Driving Club as a special courtesy arranged a performance for this afternoon at the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital. Saturday the children of the Industrial Home will be the guests of the club at the matinee performance.

Girl Loses Memory, Is Picked Up Here

Thursday afternoon Officer Kinch picked up a young woman, who was apparently suffering from loss of memory. She had been in the Cornell Building on Ferry street, asking questions. The young woman was removed to the Kingston Hospital for observation. She was examined by Dr. L. E. Sanford and Dr. Fred Snyder.

This morning she was still unable to furnish any information about herself as to her name or where she lived, and the police sent a message over the teletype seeking information. The young woman is about 23 years old, five feet five inches tall and weighs 130 pounds. She has dark hair and grayish blue eyes and is of dark complexion. She can speak both English and Italian.

No report has been received by the police up to noon as to a woman answering her description being reported as missing.

Reported Missing Man Located Here

Since Wednesday night there had been a Buick sedan parked at the curb on Bruyn avenue, near the garage of the New York Telephone Company. As the car appeared to have been abandoned the attention of the police was called to it and in checking on the license number the police learned the car had been registered in the name of Clark Seeley of Hensonville.

While checking on the car number a message came over the teletype machine in police headquarters from the Catskill police asking that Mr. Seeley be located. He was reported missing and was thought to be in the vicinity of Kingston.

Officer Soper in driving over to where the Buick was parked found Mr. Seeley about to enter the car Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Seeley informed the police that he was leaving for home today.

Fingerprinting Liquor Handlers

Under a provision in the state alcoholic beverage control law it is necessary for all employes, owners and distributors of beer to have their finger prints taken and filed with the state board. As a result the local police department is busy this week fingerprinting the employes and owners of the local breweries, and also the distributors of beer.

Thursday the police department was busy fingerprinting the employes of the Barmann brewery and today continued the work of fingerprinting owners and distributors of beer in Kingston.

Terry's Home Run In Fourth Inning Gives Giants Lead

Giants Left With Bases Full as Ryan Fans After Senator Fischer Appeared Unsettled—Hubbell Hurling for Giants—Fourth Series Game.

By ALAN GOULD

Griffith Stadium, Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—Despite cloudless skies, much warmer weather and the prospect of seeing Carl Hubbell try to check the Senators' comeback, another below-capacity crowd turned out today for the fourth game of the world series. The southpaw ace of the Giants was opposed to Monte Weaver, young right hander of the American League champions. There were no changes in either lineup although Frank (Lefty) O'Doul, pinch hit hero of the second game, took brisk part in the Giants' batting drill and was prepared to enter the proceedings if and when summoned.

The United States Army Band marched on the field at 1:30 p. m., adding a colorful touch to the scene. President Roosevelt's box was still flag-draped for its distinguished occupant but the Chief Executive was unable to attend today's contest. The government was nevertheless well represented by its baseball followers, many of whom occupied field boxes.

The stars and stripes were raised to the center field flag pole while the Military Band played the National Anthem.

The covered stands were well filled again but the outfield bleachers showed several unfilled spaces.

W. R. Farrington, Dead.

Honolulu, Oct. 6 (AP).—Wallace Rider Farrington, 62, former governor of Hawaii, died in a hospital here today. He was publisher of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin and had been confined to the hospital for several weeks following a protracted illness from heart disease which had kept him from active business since the beginning of the year.

Four Missing Pupils Wandered Into Woods

There was great excitement in the neighborhood of Shultis Corners Thursday afternoon as troopers, deputy sheriffs and about all the active firemen in Woodstock scoured the woods in search of four missing pupils of the Daisy school.

It was after dark when the missing children walked out of the woods on to the Lewis Hollow road, which branches off of the Saugerties-Woodstock road and were picked up by Griffin Herrick and Irving Greenwood of Woodstock, who were out in their car searching for them.

The four were Mary Longendyke, 11, Mildred Morrell, 11, Laura Heinlein, 8 and Alexander Easton, 10. They, with one other pupil of the school, who did not follow them, had been playing hide and seek in the woods near the school during the noon hour. When they failed to return in time for school the teacher, Miss Myrtle Barnes Bell, dismissed the smaller children and notified the trustee, Charles Keefe.

Sergeant Cunningham and Trooper Flemming, Deputy Sheriff Clayton Vredenburgh of the sheriff's office and Deputy Sheriff Jack Feeley of Woodstock, with a large number of men from the Woodstock fire department, who responded when the fire siren was blown, took up the search and went through the woods in all directions, keeping up the search until the children finally made their appearance and were brought to the school house.

The children explained that they had wandered farther and farther into the woods in their play, until they finally came to the Van Steenburgh quarry, where they met Mr. Van Steenburgh, who directed them to the road. They tried to follow his directions, but again lost their way and it was after dark when they finally made their way out of the woods and onto the road where they were picked up.

Legionnaires Adopt Resolutions at Meet

Chicago, Oct. 6 (AP).—America's Legionnaires packed up their bags and marched homeward today, determined on a three-fold peace time war — "against crime, Communism, and the economic recession."

Under the leadership of a tall attorney of Decatur, Ill.—Edward Hayes, now 42, an ensign at the Great Lakes naval station during the war against Germany—the American Legion was definitely committed to aid the police authorities in the suppression of crime, to oppose Communism and to help whip the depression by supporting the NRA.

The Legion's views on these and a variety of other subjects, including rehabilitation for disabled former soldiers were outlined in resolutions adopted yesterday before adjournment of its 15th annual convention, which meets next year in Miami.

Relief Plans for Jewish Refugees

Geneva, Switzerland, Oct. 6 (AP).—A plan for the practical relief of Jewish refugees from Germany was advanced today when the Economic Commission of the League of Nations assembly received a report and resolution from a sub-committee recommending a broad project for assistance.

This would be administered by a high commissioner to be appointed by the council of the league. He would be "allowed the fullest freedom of action." A general newspaper said Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., former governor-general of the Philippines, was being mentioned for the position.

Small Fire This Time At The Kirkland

A still alarm brought the firemen and apparatus from the Central and Wiltwyck stations to the Kirkland Hotel, corner Clinton avenue and Main street shortly before one o'clock today. There was considerable excitement for a few minutes, but the blaze, which had started in an angle on the south side of the roof was soon extinguished before it had made much headway.

Workmen are now busy working on the upper story of the building making repairs necessitated by the fire in the hotel some weeks ago.

PICKETS IN GLOVERSVILLE OVER UNION QUESTION

Gloversville, Oct. 6 (AP)—Picketing began today at 50 tanneries in Gloversville and Johnstown after 2,200 leather workers voted to walk out in protest against manufacturers refusal to recognize their union formed under the NRA code. The men also have demanded wage increases.

Famous Rita Gould Secured for Kiwanis Fashion Show, Ball

Exponent of Mae West's Type of Humor, Song and Acting Will Lead Kiwanis Fashion Show—Indian Chief and Tango Team Will Also Appear.

Rita Gould, famed exponent of the Mae West art of song and chatter, who last week headed the enormous fashion show at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York city, will head the amateur fashion show at the Kiwanis Ball and Fashion Show at the New State Armory on the evening of October 19, according to an announcement this morning of the ball entertainment committee. Miss Gould's services were secured through Miss Dorothy Fox, who was in charge of the Universley Players at the Elverhoj Theatre last summer, and who made a number of friends in this vicinity.

Also through the efforts of Miss Fox, Chief Little Moose, this country's most famous Indian dancer will appear in a program of special dance numbers. Chief Little Moose uses no music for his dances, and it is said that garbed in the beautifully beaded and colorful dress of the Indian chieftan, his graceful movements sway audiences wherever he appears.

For those who love the dancing of the Latins, Carlos and Antonia Fossello, a tango team of extraordinary ability, will appear for several numbers on the ball program. They will have a number of changes of costume and have a complete list of dances which are expected to prove enjoyable to the Kiwanis Ball audience.

Miss Gould, who had proved a sensation wherever she has appeared, will do several numbers in addition to leading the fashion show. While heading the fashion show she will be dressed in a typical Mae West outfit.

These numbers are all part of a successful revue which appeared continuously for a number of weeks at one of New York city's best hotels. They are expected to produce a quality of entertainment at the ball and fashion show, which will bring a new peak for Kingston audiences.

ROCKEFELLER, JR., TAKES STAND ON WET QUESTION

New York, Oct. 6 (AP).—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., believes the only hope of controlling the liquor problem after repeal of prohibition lies in eliminating the profit motive in liquor traffic.

He stresses the point in a statement which will be published as a foreword to a report on liquor control recently completed by Raymond B. Fosdick and Albert L. Scott after an eight-month survey sponsored by Rockefeller.

The first aim in a program of liquor control, Rockefeller said in his statement, is the abolition of lawlessness, even if "the immediate result is temporarily away from temperance."

The second aim is temperance—"The focusing of all the forces of society upon the development of self control and temperance" in the use of alcoholic beverages.

NOTED SPEAKERS AT WOMEN'S CONFERENCE

WANTS PEACE PACT FOR JAPAN AND UNITED STATES

Tokyo, Oct. 6 (AP).—Viscount Kikujiro Ishii brought back from a world tour today the belief that Japan and the United States should conclude a "peace guaranteeing" treaty.

Certain European nations would welcome a war between America and Japan, said the statesman, so the two peoples "must guard against the influence of malicious rumors."

A desirable model for a new pact, he said, would be the 1917 accord in which the United States acknowledged to some extent Japan's position in relation to adjacent continental territories.

Rousing Meeting At The Republican Club

Officers Elected and Candidates on Republican Ticket This Fall Speak Briefly—Campaign Issues Put Aside for a Get-Together Session of the Members and Friends of the Club.

Harry B. Walker, the Republican candidate for mayor this fall, told the members and friends of the Republican Club Thursday evening that he would discuss at future meetings his plans to relieve the unemployment situation and aid the taxpayers of Kingston, but as the meeting that evening had been set aside for a get-together session he would refrain at that time from discussing politics and assured those present that he was glad to meet with the club again at this, its opening meeting of the fall. The opening meeting was turned over to sociability and the various candidates this fall spoke briefly. This year the club is meeting in the Modern Dance Hall on Grand street, next door to the Millard plant, and the opening meeting was attended by several hundred men, and proved one of the most rousing meetings in the club's history.

The club elected the following officers: President, Edgar T. Shultis; first vice president, N. Levan Haver; second vice president, Willis Roe, and secretary, Nelson W. Snyder. Mr. Shultis in assuming office said that the first meeting would not be prolonged but would be devoted to entertainment and sociability, and that he would call on the various candidates who would speak briefly.

Tribute to Clearwater.

President Shultis called attention to the loss the Republican party had sustained in the death of Judge A. T. Clearwater and the club and its friends stood for half a minute in deep silence as a token of respect to the memory of the late judge.

Mr. Walker Speaks.

Harry B. Walker was given a rousing reception as he was introduced and said that he appreciated the honor that had been conferred upon him in selecting him as the Republican candidate for mayor. He said that later in the campaign he would discuss campaign issues, but as this opening meeting was being held for the purpose of electing officers and getting acquainted, he would refrain at this time in discussing his proposed plans for the relief of the unemployment situation and aiding the taxpayers of Kingston.

Heiselman Welcomed.

C. J. Heiselman, who has served the city as its acting mayor for several months this year, and who is the Republican candidate to succeed himself as alderman-at-large, was heartily greeted. He said that he would discuss the issues as he saw them later. He said that everyone present knew what had happened the past two years under Democratic administration. He said that they recalled the promises that had been made by the Democratic administration two years ago and that those promises had never been fulfilled.

Cahill for City Judge.

Matthew V. Cahill, the Republican candidate for city judge, called attention to the fine record the Republican party had made since it had been in control of the policies of Ulster county. The county was now debt free and county taxes had been reduced nearly 50 per cent last year.

Tribute to Elting

J. Edward Conway, the Republican candidate to succeed himself as member of assembly, paid a tribute to the leadership of Philip Elting who had been serving as chairman of the Republican party in Ulster county for the past 30 years, and in all these years never a breath of scandal had been lodged against any official in positions of trust in the Republican party.

Simpson and DuBois

County Clerk James A Simpson, the Republican candidate to succeed himself as county clerk, and Leston DuBois of New Paltz, the Republican candidate for coroner, were introduced and spoke briefly.

Other Speakers

C. Ray Everett, Morris Gerber and former Mayor E. J. Dempsey were introduced and spoke briefly. Frank J. Leirey, candidate for alderman of the Fourth Ward also spoke.

Fine Entertainment

Tom Dolan and Martin Kelly, vocalists, sang several solos during the evening accompanied by Jacob Lang of the Lang music shop on the piano.

George Spait also rendered a selection at the request of the audience.

Meet Next Thursday

The next meeting of the club will be held next Thursday evening when speakers will open the campaign by discussing political issues and entertainment will be given. A committee on speakers and a committee on entertainment were appointed before the meeting adjourned.

Eddyville Man Fined.

Edward Wennersten of Eddyville drove to the left of the traffic standard at Broadway and Railroad avenue this morning. He was arrested and later in police court was fined $2 by Judge Culloton.

Possibility of Peace Seen For Havana

Havana, Oct. 6 (AP)—A resumption of negotiations for political peace became a possibility today after an important conference of Cuban leaders which America n Ambassador Sumner Welles is reliably reported to have attended.

The parley took place at the home of Dr. Cosme de la Torriente, who previously participated in Mr. Welles' meditation attempts, and followed a meeting of the American emissary and Colonel Fulgencio Batista, leader of the Cuban army.

Among those present also was General Carlos Mendieta, Nationalist chieftain. Earlier attempts to effect a reconciliation between the Ramon Grau San Martin administration and its opponents, including the Nationalists and the O C R R and A B C secret societies, apparently ended in failure a week ago when Grau's supporters spurned the opposition's demands for Grau's resignation and a coalition government.

Reliable political observers said the conference last night was the first of a series designed to reopen actual negotiations between the government and the opposition factions.

The capital, meanwhile, was quiet, though police guards patrolled all foreign banks after the manager of the Havana branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia told authorities a plot was afoot to bomb his institution to bring about American intervention.

Auto Mechanic Fatally Burned

Ellenville, Oct. 6.—The clothing of Louis A. Noest, who was employed in the repair department of Ladenheim's garage on Canal street, caught fire on Tuesday and he was fatally burned while working on a car in the garage. He was treated by Dr. Weiss and rushed to the Veterans' Memorial Hospital at once where he received treatment, but died Wednesday morning. Mr. Noest was born in Gratz, Austria, on May 11, 1893, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Noest. On September 19, 1916, he married Johanna Lechner in New York city, and two years later they came to Oak Ridge to make their home. He leaves his wife, two daughters, Gertrude and Johanna, a son, Louis, and his father, John Noest, of River Edge, N. J. Father Gets conducted the funeral services today in St. Andrew's Church, of which deceased was a member. Interment was in Fantinekill Cemetery.

Says R. R. Stocks Were Unloaded

Washington, Oct. 6. (AP).—Senator Couzens (R-Mich.) charged before senate investigators that some "wise guys unloaded" more than $11,000,000 of railroad stock during the boom in 1929 on investment trusts organized by Dillon, Read & Company.

This flat assertion by the member of the stock market inquiry committee followed disclosure that investments by the trust in two railroads, both of which later went into receivership, had depreciated to almost nothing.

The stock was acquired by joint accounts between the trusts and Dillon, Read & Company in 1929, managed by the latter.

"Some wise guys must have been unloading on you, there is no doubt of that," said Couzens to E. B. Tracy, president of the two investment trusts.

The witness had disclosed the syndicated operations by which the stock was acquired, under questioning by Ferdinand Pecora, counsel.

Scout Campaign Workers to Meet

With only partial reports from ten of the sixteen communities of Greene county reporting, the total return at the end of the second day of this section of the Boy Scout campaign was $1,254.10, with honors going to the Catskill organization turning in over two-thirds of the amount set by the workers as their goal.

Tonight workers from the Upper Hudson and from the Catskill Administrative Centers will meet at the Saulpaugh Hotel in Catskill and the Mountain Administrative Center workers will meet in the Fire Hall at Hunter. Both meetings are scheduled for 8 o'clock.

Judge Dismissed Action For Injuries

The action brought by Dewey Y. Casaburi and his wife, Margaret A. Casaburi, of Brooklyn against Park Higgins of Ellenville to recover for injuries which Mrs. Casaburi received when she fell on the steps of the Higgins premises on February 8, 1931, was dismissed by Judge Foster in supreme court Thursday after several witnesses had been sworn. Mr. Cook who appeared for defendant moved for dismissal on the grounds that plaintiff, Mrs. Casaburi, was not an invitee on the premises at the time she suffered her injuries and that she was on the Higgins premises at her own volition and consequently the defendant could not be held for any injuries which she suffered. Judge Foster upheld that contention and the complaint was dismissed. Joseph Kooperman appeared for plaintiff and Andrew J. Cook for defendant. The action alleged that Mrs. Casaburi had fallen on an icy step and suffered a broken ankle.

A jury was then taken in an action to recover insurance. Anna Graham brings an action against the Knickerbocker Insurance Company of New York, et al, to recover $3,500 insurance on a property at Lapala which burned February 16, 1932. She alleges that on February 17 she was notified that the premium on the policy had not been paid and on February 23 she learned that the premises had been destroyed. M. O. Auchmoody appears for plaintiff and Frank W. Brooks and Lloyd R. LeFever for defendants.

World Business Is Declared on Upturn

Washington.—An upturn in business, similar to that enjoyed in the United States under the blue eagle of the NRA, is being felt throughout the world. According to officials of the Department of Commerce, millions of workers are returning to employment in industries in many countries. Wages, according to reports to the department, are the highest in years.

Since last winter more than 3,000,000 employees have returned to work, it has been estimated. Unemployment in the United States at present has been placed at 11,000,000. Since winter 2,000,000 have found jobs in this country.

The total of French unemployed, 283,000, showed a sharp decline against a large increase in 1932. In Italy unemployment at the end of April was 1,078,000, about 45,000 more than in April, 1932, but the decline from the January high was marked.

German unemployment at the end of May, 5,252,000, was 13 per cent under January and 6 per cent under May, 1932. British unemployment, 2,742,000, was 7 per cent under January and 3 per cent under May, 1932.

On the basis of figures compiled by the League of Nations, industrial output has risen along with employment.

DAUGHTER TO SEEK DAD'S LOST RICHES

Millions in Jewels to Be Hunted in India.

Nice.—Over sixty years old, Mrs. Helene Gardner Botha of Nice, daughter of one of America's most colorful soldiers of fortune, is organizing an expedition to India in search of treasure valued at millions of dollars.

Mrs. Botha, divorced wife of a judge in South Africa, is the only known offspring of Alexander Gardner, native of what is now Wisconsin, who served as artillery colonel under the Maharajah Ranjit Singh and died in Kashmir in 1877 at the reputed age of ninety-two, leaving a two-year-old daughter.

Gardner's father was a Scottish surgeon, who fought with Washington and Lafayette.

At his death, Gardner was living in Srinagar, capital of Kashmir, and was virtually king of an extensive territory bestowed upon him by the maharajah of Kashmir. His immense fortune, mostly in precious stones, which he had taken as tribute, was willed to his daughter, but disappeared before she was old enough to claim it, according to the story.

Mrs. Botha made a serious, but vain, effort to find the gems 35 years ago. "It didn't matter then," she said, "but now I am thinking of my children. I am sure the precious stones are still in Kashmir.

"I never have received more than $500 a year from my father's estate, and 35 years ago I gathered a party and went to Kashmir in an effort to recover my fortune, but my friends lost their courage and I had to give up the search. At the Lahore bank I found only a package containing my father's will.

"This time I am determined to find the gems and money because I am convinced the treasure does exist. In any case, I consider I have the inherited right to claim revenue from the villages over which my father ruled."

Experts Despair of Cure of Radio Waves' Victim

Los Angeles.—Martin Bodker turned sadly back toward his home at Tacoma, Wash., after hearing from experts that there is practically nothing to do about the strange affliction which makes him whirl about and robs him of speech every time he hears the blare of a radio.

Bodker, after four years of suffering, came 1,400 miles from Tacoma to consult scientists at the California Institute of Technology, at Pasadena. Samuel S. MacKeown, associate professor of electrical engineering at the institute, told him that so far as electrical science is concerned his case was considered hopeless. Bodker prepared to return North, possibly to close out his business and seek a change of climate.

Bodker, fifty-three years old, married and the father of two grown children, demonstrated the strange effect of radio waves upon his body. A station using a long wave produced no noticeable effect at first except upon his voice. But after a few minutes, it caused Bodker to spring from his chair and whirl like a dancing dervish. His convulsive muscles quieted as soon as he retrieved his cane, wrapped with copper wire, and plunged it into a can of water. The cane "grounds" him. Another station, of shorter wave length, merely caused his head to bob violently, and throat muscles to contract spasmodically.

Washington Birthplace Gets Colonial Antiques

Washington.—Several antiques of interest to students of the Colonial period have been given to Wakefield, birthplace of George Washington, according to the Department of the Interior. A clock made in 1720 that announces the time by a system of bells every quarter hour, was donated by Mrs. C. C. Worthington, on behalf of the Wakefield National Memorial association. Mrs. Worthington acquired the clock during a recent visit to Britain, the department said.

Several other articles of the period when Virginia planters did their shopping in Britain also were presented. Among them are a taburet, a bedspread, a pewter ink pot and four slipware dishes.

Brewer Gives Pointers About Drinking of Beer

Detroit, Mich.—Julius Stroh, Detroit's oldest brewer, gives the following observations anent beer:

Don't gulp it; sip it.

Beer should appeal to the palate, sight and smell—not to the desire for "kick."

Serve in either thin crystal goblets or heavy mugs.

If you want the proper head, never serve in container used to hold milk or greasy beverages.

Never serve at a temperature of above 50 degrees, or lower than 42 degrees.

Last, but not least, be temperate in consumption.

Zoo Elephant Said to Be Subject to Nightmares

Scranton, Pa.—Queenie, an elephant purchased by school children for a zoo here some years ago, is subject to nightmares. A policeman making his rounds at 2 a. m. discovered that when he found Queenie, her chain broken, doing a dance. She had gone on a rampage and smashed in a door before being subdued.

HIGH NECKLINES DECREED FOR FALL

Devices Used to Soften Line About Face.

Fashion says necklines for the coming season must be higher than ever. Those past their teens protest that high necklines are very hard to wear. So a compromise has been reached by the introduction of all sorts of flattering devices that shall soften the line about the face, while preserving the chic of the new silhouette.

Sports frocks introduce gaily patterned scarfs, in tie silks, satins or hand-knitted effects. Sheer wool street frocks frequently show the bodice cut out around the neckline to show a satin yoke beneath, with scarf collar tied in a soft bow.

A typical example is a gray wool street dress, with shallow round yoke and bow scarf of a gray and yellow striped satin. A frock of rust-colored sheer wool has the bodice cut out in diamond effect over a yoke of brown satin, which also has a bow scarf. Brown fur epaulets repeat this touch of contrast, which is further carried out by brown accessories.

FOR EARLY FALL

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

This charming fall gown should be seen in the original to be appreciated, for it is impossible to show the texture of the handsome ribbed faille of bemberg which fashions it. This flair for deep ribbed and ridged materials is growing more insistent each day. Particularly, interest centers about bemberg ribbed faille, for while it has an elegance of appearance to be coveted, it is not at all expensive and it comes in the most fascinating new autumn colors. The model shown is in radiant brown. The sleeves are noteworthy, for they interpret the recent movement toward placing fullness below the shoulder line. Brown and white satin flowers together with a belt which takes on a section of white satin, enhance this fetching gown. Ribbed satin gloves and one of the very new visored hats contribute a goodly share of chic to this ensemble.

STYLE NOTES

Velvet trims wool street clothes.

A big vogue for satin or velvet gloves is in promise.

Velvet gowns with stiffened lace details are featured.

With your suit a velvet blouse is important, fall style message.

You must have either a hat and scarf set or a blouse of plaid velvet.

Fullness below the knees, very snug-fitting above, comes the word for formal gowns.

Chinese and Indian red, eel gray, gobi beige, and many browns are some of the new colors. Sapphire and other vital blues are very smart.

Designer Says Women Are More Quality-Conscious

The following statement recently issued to the press by Madame Schiaparelli, noted French designer, is interesting and encouraging in that she declares that women are growing increasingly quality-conscious. According to the views of this authoritative style creator, "everything that is cheap and quickly perishable is an extravagance no woman can afford. Cheap substitutes for real value will not bring about a return of prosperity.

"Women have come to realize that one well cut, beautiful dress is the luxury allowed to a shaky budget. No fake jewelry is permitted today. Accessories should not be ordinary.

"The mode has been Victorian for three years. I am strongly opposed to this influence. The era of fussiness is over. We may, however, turn to the past for splendor and luxury. A certain amount of it is badly needed.

"With this in mind I am using many beautiful fabrics. In stressing the beauty of materials, their cut and finish, I have had one thought in mind, and that is simplicity. Nothing is sensational.

"The new silhouette is extremely simple. Waistlines are normal. Skirt lengths are normal. Width at the top I have kept, for I believe in it. Why harbor the delusion that a woman looks well with a small bust? It is not so."

Benjamin Franklin in 1764 inaugurated night mail in the colonies, this being the first time it had been used anywhere. It was first used between Boston and New York and New York and Philadelphia, the mails traveling by night as well as by day.

DOTS IN THE MODE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

It is surprising how persistently dotted effects keep in the mode. Today, polka dots, from medium to tremendous coin dots, are, if possible, more fashionable than ever. Paris designers especially exploit the dotted theme. To be sure, the costume pictured is rather extreme from an American standpoint, yet it goes to show how French couturiers are placing emphasis on dots. Another fashion which loses not in favor is that of black and white. As the season progresses it is apparent that black with white is as much in the limelight as ever. The tight-fitting sleeveless black velvet jacket and the self-fabric gloves are the high spots of this costume

Jacket Ensembles

The jacket frock is developed in all the fabrics of the moment—summer sheer crepes, printed crepes, chiffons, linens, pique, eyelet embroidery and other cottons.

"Puts" and "Calls"

A "put" is a contract or written agreement binding the issuer to receive from the holder stock named in the agreement within a certain time at a certain price if holder shall so demand. A "call" is a similar contract binding the issuer to deliver to the holder the stock named in contract if holder shall demand or call for the stock. A "put" and "call" is a double option of being able to buy or sell according to which transaction will yield a profit. A speculator who has bought stocks is long on them, or in other words is a "bull"; one who is short of stocks is a "bear." A short is one who has sold a stock which he does not possess and has borrowed the stock for delivery to the buyer. The object of selling short is to repurchase subsequently at a lower figure.

BEFRIENDING BOYS.

Two things may be done with the boy caught in crime, says Judge John Gutknecht of the Boys' Court in Chicago. He may be given one to twenty years in prison, or a suspended sentence for a year while society finds out whether he can go straight. Recently society has demanded the stiffer treatment. The judge questions that demand.

"I could fill our jail in one year," says the judge. The process could be repeated indefinitely, but the original problem would remain unsolved. Eventually the prisoner must be released. What then? Probably more crime. Long jail sentences make hardened criminals. Reformatories rarely reform. Houses of correction impose temporary restraint but do not check a criminal tendency. If a boy is to be salvaged, it must be done early and outside prison walls."

Preventive efforts expended on the lad of 18 may save society 50 years of police, judicial and penitentiary expense in connection with that same boy. But supervision and probation require work, care and the cooperation of many individuals who are willing to help as understanding friends. Mostly the public is too lazy or too busy to undertake its share of such work. The young criminals in the boys' court do not come from the underprivileged home alone. They come from all classes and all walks of life. They need the help of intelligent men and women, of fraternal, social, religious and benevolent organizations, to save them for themselves and for society. In the great quest for new occupations for new leisure, here is one which should not be overlooked.

RACKETEERS' LAWYERS.

In its war on criminals and racketeers the federal justice department apparently intends to be thorough. It has compiled a list of attorneys suspected of underworld connections. Wherever it can prove improper connections, it intends to punish and disbar the lawyers involved. Without influential connections in the upper world, the underworld could not have achieved the power and audacity it has lately displayed.

Under our system every citizen has a right to legal protection and defense until he has been proved guilty of a punishable crime. Even a convicted criminal has certain rights of appeal before sentence is finally imposed. The lawyer who looks after such a client's interests, honestly and fairly, is not the object of the justice department's drive. The lawyers the department seeks to curb are those who advise the underworld on how to commit and cover up crimes, who connive at criminals' escape when caught, resort to trickery in court defenses, and in general exceed the bounds of legitimate legal protection.

Bar associations have been trying to tackle this problem. They should welcome federal assistance. The public would be glad to see local authorities take courage and inspiration from the national government's activity and set about for themselves cleaning up weak places in police forces and courts where the wrong influences sometimes seem to carry more weight than public welfare and justice.

POPULAR MUSIC.

An orchestra conductor, just back from Europe, has interesting plans for the coming symphony season. For one thing, he is going to give a series of nationality programs. They should serve two purposes. The first is to interest different racial groups of the city in the symphony concerts by presenting in unified programs the great music of their home lands. The other is to give regular concertgoers a better appreciation of such music than they would get from hearing the different numbers scattered through a long series of mixed programs.

It may sound as if the conductor had the education of his audiences more in mind than their pleasure. Not so. Another of his plans is to make the concert patron feel at ease and comfortable by making formal dress purely a matter of inclination. He maintains that "the idea that one has to be done out in handsome clothes to hear a symphony concert is foolishness." There has been plenty of proof lately that good music, even grand opera, has great popular appeal when presented without the artificial adjuncts of too much dignity, formality and high prices.

DOOR-TO-DOOR FREIGHT.

Another innovation illustrates the revival in railroad enterprise. The Pennsylvania obtains permission to try the "store door" system of handling freight in less than carload lots. The railroad's own trucks will call for the goods at the shipper's place of business. It will also deliver them to the consignee, instead of handling them only from station to station, as has been the custom. Moreover, it will perform this service free within a range of 260 miles, charging a small fee beyond that distance for collection and delivery.

Here is obviously a move to meet the competition of independent truck lines, which have been taking much of the railroads' small shipment business. It aims to improve the quality of the service rendered by the rail lines themselves. It may win back lost business and good will. If the experiment succeeds, it will naturally spread to other lines. But it would have been better for the railroads had they adopted "public be pleased" policies before being forced into doing so.

STARCHY FOOD AND HEADACHE

You may be having headaches regularly and as many headaches come from the eyes or the food you have your eyes tested and find that they are below normal. The eye specialist tells you that the loss of acute vision is not very great, but that it might be sufficient to cause you headaches.

Your headaches disappear for a short time but return and you are now at a loss as to their cause.

Knowing that constipation is often a factor you establish regular intestinal movements but you still have headaches.

Dr. A. Maitland Ramsay, London, reminds us that the eyes are affected by whatever the blood stream carries to them. It is now known that infection from the teeth is the cause of partial loss of eyesight in many individuals due to the poisons being carried to the eye.

That certain food stuffs affect various parts of the body is seen in the way some fresh fruits, strawberries particularly, will cause large lumps to form on the skin.

Tomatoes, one of the best foods because of their richness in vitamins, cannot be eaten by others, for the same reason.

Eggs, one of the greatest body builders, cause an upset in many individuals whether eaten raw, cooked, in cakes or ice cream.

And now it is found that starches—sugar, candy, pastry, cakes—are not handled well by the body if eaten in very large quantities and eye trouble followed by headaches may result.

"Adults who complain of headache, which persists after they have had their vision corrected, are often found reacting to increased amounts of starches—sugars—in the diet. In children inflammation of the eyelids may be traced to eating too much of this one kind of food. Many of these children offer feeble resistance to every form of infection, and it is possible that it is the way starches are handled in the body that may have something to do with their lack of resistance to ailments.

Remember, starches and sugars must be eaten every day to give heat and energy. It is just possible however that your headaches may be due to eating more than your particular body can handle.

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO

Oct. 6, 1913—Abdul Assid, a Syrian boy, injured while coasting in his cart down the Port Ewen hill.

Frank Foley, a hobo, badly hurt jumping from a West Shore freight train here.

Pluto Reddish Planet

Pluto, one of the recent of the planets to be discovered, which was found at Lowell observatory, is a reddish planet, which is brighter to the eye than it is on a photographic plate.

Outrageous Fortune

by Patricia Wentworth

SYNOPSIS: Nesta Riddell tells the man she found suffering from loss of memory that he is her husband, Jimmy, and that he has stolen the Van Berg emeralds, and shot Van Berg. Caroline Leigh believes he is her cousin Jim Randal, but Nesta keeps them apart. Here Jim, wakened in the night by Nesta's prowling about, has seized her by the throat as an intruder, and then has determined to "get down to cases" with her. But he still can remember nothing of his past, although he has talked in his sleep of the emeralds.

Chapter 17

AT THE LIBRARY

NESTA looked up at him—a sideways glance, anger in it, and something else.

He said, "How much money have I got?"

"You know what was in your pockets, don't you?"

He said, "No." And then, "But I could easily find out."

"What do you mean?"

"I could ring up the hospital."

A scalding rage swept over Nesta. If she had had anything to strike him with, she would have struck with all her might. She had nothing. She stiffened against the rage, and it went by.

"It would be quite easy to find out," he said; and then, "Do you want me to ring up in the morning?" He laughed a little. "I don't think you do. How much was it? Fifty pounds?" He was watching her eyes. "Forty? Thirty? Twenty?"

All the lines showed in her face.

"Five—if you must know."

"Five? To take me abroad."

She laughed harshly.

"You were going to Glasgow—that's as much as you told me. You'd money to splash about as long as I knew you, but you never told me where it came from. If you want to know, you gave me ten pounds when you went away, and said you'd send me some more. And five pounds was what was in your pocket-book. That's straight. And I'm keeping what I've got. You can ring up the hospital if you like."

He thought she was speaking the truth. He said.

"I'll take the pocket-book."

Nesta hesitated, made a step towards the door, and turned again.

"What do you want it for?"

"It's mine."

"I'm going to bed."

As she passed the threshold, she was aware that he was following her. She swung round angrily.

"What d'you want?"

"That pocket-book."

"If I say no?"

"I shall come and take it. You'd better hand it over—you haven't got a leg to stand on."

He thought she was going to strike him, but she governed herself. After a moment she spoke.

"You think a lot of yourself—don't you. Suppose I go to the police."

"Suppose you do."

She turned with a jerk and went along the passage and up the stairs. He heard her go into her room, and a minute later he heard her come out again.

He was at the foot of the stairs to meet her. She snapped on the passage light as she came out, and when she saw him she stood still about half way down.

"There's your case!" she said, and threw it at him.

LEDLINGTON has quite a good public library. At a quarter past nine in the morning Jim sat at a solid wooden table and turned over the leaves of a fat pile of newspapers. He had asked for the file of The Daily Surprise, because it could be trusted to leave nothing out. Every available detail of the assault on Mr. Van Berg and the theft of the Van Berg emeralds would certainly be found in its columns.

Jim turned the pages. He wasn't quite sure when it had happened. Nesta had been rather vague, perhaps purposely . . . Ah! Here was a piece about the Alice Arden! He had better read it. But it didn't get him anywhere; there was nothing he hadn't gathered from Nesta. He must go back a bit. . . . He came on a headline:

VAN BERG NEAR DEATH

He frowned, hesitated, and went on turning the leaves backwards. Better begin at the beginning.

He found it at last, and read, his face hard and expressionless.

> The village of Packham, twenty miles from Ledlington, has been the scene of a most amazing crime.
> Elmer K. Van Berg, connoisseur of precious stones, was discovered shortly after midnight in his library at Packham Hall, unconscious. He had been shot at close range, and it is doubtful whether he will recover.
> The room was in perfect order, but the safe in which Mr. Van Berg kept his valuables was unlocked, and a unique chain of emeralds, said to have belonged to the Emperor Atahualpa, last of the Inca chiefs, was missing. These emeralds, which had been recently inherited by Mr. Van Berg, are eight in number, perfectly matched, flawless, and of immense value.
> Mrs. Van Berg has furnished the police a detailed description of the missing jewels.

Jim ran his eye rapidly down the column. . . . An interview with the housekeeper at Packham Hall, Miss Caroline Bussell. Bricks without straw. Miss Bussell had retired early, and had not known that anything out of the usual was happening until Mrs. Van Berg ran into her room between one and two in the morning and said something dreadful had happened. She then woke the other servants, and when she got downstairs, Mrs. Van Berg had telephoned to the doctor and was ringing up the police.

HE turned to the next day's issue:

> WILL MR. VAN BERG RECOVER CONSCIOUSNESS?
> This is an all important question, since it is probable that he alone saw his assailant, though it appears that Mrs. Van Berg narrowly missed doing so.
> "Elmer always sat up late," Mrs. Van Berg said today. "I would go upstairs, and sometimes I would hear him come up, and sometimes I wouldn't hear a thing. Last night I came up as usual at about eleven o'clock, but I couldn't sleep. At twelve I went downstairs to get a book. As I passed the library door, I could hear voices. Elmer was talking to someone."
> "You didn't go in, Mrs. Van Berg?" asked the Examiner.
> Mrs. Van Berg shook her head. She is a platinum blonde with grey eyes and the slimmest of modern figures.
> "No. I wish I had! It might have saved my husband's life."
> "Were the voices raised? Did it sound as if there was a quarrel?"
> Mrs. Van Berg shook her head again.
> "Oh no—they sounded just ordinary."
> "Could you distinguish anything that was said?"
> Mrs. Van Berg appeared to hesitate for a moment.
> "Oh no—I wasn't listening of course. I just got my book and went upstairs again."
> "And then?"
> "I don't know—I guess I was drowsy—but all at once I thought I heard a shot."
> "Was that long after you came upstairs?"
> Mrs. Van Berg hesitated again.
> "I don't know. It seemed to rouse me up."
> "And then?"
> "I ran downstairs, and as soon as I opened the library door I saw Elmer lying there."
> Mrs. Van Berg was overcome.
> "Oh, it was dreadful!" she said when she could speak again. "I was afraid to touch him. I ran up and called Miss Bussell, and telephoned to the doctor and the police."
> "And when did you miss the emeralds?"
> "I wasn't thinking about the emeralds—I was thinking about my husband!"
> "But you must have missed them some time."
> "Yes—when the police came and began to ask questions."
> "And was anything missing besides the emeralds?"
> "There was nothing else there—nothing else of value. My other jewels were up in my room. I was going to wear the emeralds that week, so my husband had got them out of the bank. He always kept them in his own safe when I was going to wear them, because they were so valuable."
> "Then it looks as if the thief was acquainted with his habits?"
> "Yes, it does."

That was all that really signified, though there was a lot about the emeralds, and the Incas, and the Mr. Van Berg uncle who had started the famous gem collection.

Jim sat staring at the page. Elmer Van Berg had sat talking in his library with the man who had robbed him. He had the odd feeling that he knew Elmer Van Berg, and that what he knew of him made it difficult to believe that he would have engaged in talk at that hour with any chance-come stranger.

And if he knew Elmer Van Berg, and if it was he who had talked to him in that library at midnight, then there was no question of its being a stranger. And he did know Elmer Van Berg. He knew the way the straight iron-grey thatch of hair stood up above his forehead, the way the shrewd, pleasant eyes looked out under the iron-grey brows.

He had only to shut his eyes to see these things, and the hand and the scar, and the emerald chain dangling from it under the light.

All of a sudden his temples were wet. It was true! He had sat and talked to a man as a friend and shot him down!

It was a lie.

He wiped his forehead. If it was a lie, why could he see that hand with the scar, and the emeralds hanging from it?

With a dogged determination he went on reading.

(Copyright, 1933, J. B. Lippincott Co.)

Tomorrow, Jim makes a very important decision.

STROKES OF GENIUS

by SAMUEL NISENSON & ALFRED PARKER

BURNS refused to acknowledge the authorship of his most famous song! For years, he pretended to his friends, Mme. Dunlop and George Thompson, that "Auld Lang Syne" was really the work of some heaven-inspired minstrel of the olden times.

"Auld Lang Syne" was sent by Burns to Mme. Dunlop in a letter dated December 17, 1788, together with the "Silver Tassie." The glorious song has travelled far beyond the boundaries of Scotland, and is the favorite tune of good fellowship for social gatherings the world over.

Intense poverty turned Burns into a hard-worked ploughboy, and, as he put it, the cheerless gloom of a hermit and the inceasing toil of a galley slave brought him to his 16th year. His natural robust frame shaken by nerve-racking labor, Burns drank heavily to forget his unhappy existence. At 37, he breathed his last and Scotland lost her greatest poet.

The tender song begins:

Should auld acquaintance be forgot,
And never brought to mind!
Should auld acquaintance be forgot,
And auld lang syne!

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—There are many indications that the house of representatives will be a much more individualistic body in the future and that a large proportion of the members will be out for themselves from now on.

HENRY RAINEY

The days when they stood unswervingly behind the administration are over many observers agree. So are the days when they more or less graciously consented to being stifled by special rules.

Rumblings of discontent are increasing. They range from dissatisfaction over patronage on down the line.

All members of the house will be up for reelection a year from now. They must do something on their own during the coming session if they hope to return.

Consequently pleas for support of the administration likely will fall on less responsive ears unless such cooperation fits in with their own plans.

On Their Own?

THERE is even talk among some of the members of the house of seeking reelection in 1934 on a platform fashioned by themselves. That is, to appeal to their constituents on their own record and not that of the party.

One member of the house, for example, has spent virtually all of his time since the adjournment of the special session in Washington trying to get a post office approved in the largest city in his district. He is also working night and day in an effort to get some money from the public works administration for two waterways in his district.

"If I can get these three projects approved," he says, "I'll be riding high in my district. I can be reelected next year regardless of what the party has or has not accomplished."

Speakership Possibilities

IN THAT connection the very interesting subject of the speakership comes into the picture. Speaker Rainey, of course, has been elected for the whole of the seventy-third congress.

His election, however, was made possible by the support of the various so-called radical groups among the democrats in the house. McDuffie lost the speakership because he was considered too conservative.

However, if these groups disintegrate and embark on a course of their own choosing, it may be a different story in the seventy-fourth congress. The conservative group in the house will hang together and might hold the balance of power.

It could then elect the speaker. McDuffie might not be the one to get the job, but one of his group could. The odds are now that Sam Rayburn of Texas would be the man in such an eventuality.

Howe About:

Straight Men
Sound Judgment
Huey Long

By ED HOWE

I HEAR many fine compliments for the people; I have rarely known a man who did not say:

"I have the finest neighbors in the world."

There is a gentler atmosphere where there are women and children: I read the other day that hawks and song birds often nest in the same trees. With mothers and young about, the hawk behaves himself, and does his killing elsewhere.

When the Yankees went south in 1861-5, how they acted, no women or children being along. My son has been in Texas for years, with his family, and writes me: "It seems to me I have the best neighbors in the world."

Men are always rougher when the women and children are not along. Note what the men say on returning home after a day spent downtown with men: "It seems to me I have the meanest opposition in the world."

I often hear people say they intend to take up a special course in music, French, literature, whist, etc., but have never heard of anyone taking up a special course in taste, of judgment in handling what education or sense one has. . . . I oftener have need of taste or judgment, than nearly anything else. One does not play whist often, or often encounter a French word, but the exercise of sound judgment, taste, will greatly oblige him every hour of the day.

Huey Long, a Holy Roller in the radical religion, says his father was poor and ignorant, and kept in that condition by the unscrupulous rich. . . . Huey has two brothers, mature men, and respectable and successful lawyers. They both say their father was a large farmer, a better educated and more intelligent man than their brother Huey, and able to make a better speech than any of his sons. The Long brothers also say that when they were children, they had intelligent and helpful neighbors, and were never ground down by anybody. . . . It is easy for anyone to win in politics, if the candidate is able to tell the demagogue story gracefully. The demagogue story is thousands of years old, and always the same; all dishonest voters ask of a new man telling it is that he be eloquent, dramatic, a good liar, and a rogue like themselves.

A new book on sociology by a college professor is like a new memorial to Abe Lincoln: it is not actually needed. Prof. L. P. Jacks, of Oxford, has just erected another monument of 408 pages to the ideal society which expresses itself in providing comfortable homes for the poor, drunkards, fallen women, orphans, criminals, etc., with hope of reclaiming the subjects of our charity.

If our race ever attains an ideal social arrangement, there will be no poor, drunkards, fallen women, orphans, or criminals. A man's greatest injustice is that he is hampered in his efforts to successfully care for himself by being taxed to care for those less industrious. Only of the man animal is it demanded that he carry a part of another's load.

Say that in the natural march of man, the natural load of each one is forty pounds; to carry forty pounds all day turns out a considerable task by evening. But we have increased the load of every reasonably hearty man to certainly fifty pounds. Some others are carrying only thirty, twenty or ten pounds, or no load at all. Indeed, many worthless persons are being carried in litters from camp to camp by the stronger.

The French woman called George Sand was a perfect type of the radical. Her morals were atrocious, but, like others of her type, she had enormous visions of saving the world.

"I would be cut to pieces for ideals I know will never be realized," she wrote. "I grope in darkness and my tired arms grasp nothing save delusive shadows, yet if I followed my personal inclinations I should not pull my neighbor's child out of the water."

Radicals everywhere have always been like that: know they cannot accomplish what they so disturb the world by attempting, and neglect the little good hourly at hand.

(This indictment of radicals is brief and simply written that it may be easily understood. I so intend it; I purposely avoid making a book of the idea.)

A man informs me that he married a woman who had lived all her life in hotels and boarding houses, and that she was so little civilized that when he took her to a house he provided, she struck matches on the walls of the rooms.

During the present depression I find that in my household we occasionally recover something of value from the attic. These articles were condemned and sent there during the higher standard of living days, but which we have during the past two or three years been unable to maintain. . . . (I recommend that the newspapers generally print this; it may prove helpful to a good many who are thinking of going on the county, but are delaying the final plunge. They may find something in the attic of use in the emergency, as we did.

"The Mills of the Gods"

In his book, "Retribution," Friedrich von Logau says, "Though the mills of God grind slowly, yet they grind exceedingly small." Longfellow's translation of this poem will be found in his "Poetic Aphorisms." The saying is also attributed to Plutarch and others.

TERRAPLANE OWNERS
GAIN PROTECTION

There's a thrill in driving an Essex Terraplane. Get the most from your car this winter. Protect its cooling-system against freezing and rust. Be prepared for the first cold snap. Frozen radiators and cracked engine-blocks cost money.

Put in Eveready Prestone before the freeze. It won't boil away, or heat up your motor. At $2.95 a gallon, it's your most economical buy.

It brings two-way protection—guards your car against freezing and rust. The Essex Terraplane 6, '33, can be protected to zero for $2.95—giving you a full winter of safe, rust-free (and trouble-free) driving. For other models and makes, see your dealer's chart.

Eveready Prestone is approved by all car manufacturers. Fully guaranteed by National Carbon Co., Inc., New York, N. Y.

*October 22 is the average first freezing day for Kingston. Put in Eveready Prestone now—and play safe.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press.)

Detroit, Oct. 6.—It was moving day, explained Modie Gray, 33-year-old negro, when he was arrested with a razor in his pocket.

"But," asked Recorder's Judge John P. Scallen, before whom he was taken on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, "what other personal effects did you move?"

"Just the razor," Gray replied. "That's my only personal effect."

"Two to five years in Jackson Prison," said the judge. "And leave the razor behind."

Death Parts Brothers.

Freeland, Pa.—Death has separated John and Peter Parrish, twin brothers, for the first time in ninety-one years.

Peter died unexpectedly yesterday, two days after they had celebrated their ninety-first birthday.

The brothers fought through the Civil War side by side and lived and raised their families in the same community. John has 24 descendants and Peter 25.

Girls Will Be Girls.

New London, Conn.—If she's a freshman, the well dressed girl of the Connecticut College campus wears a loose fitting burlap bag reaching to the knees and a false nose. The sophomores dictated the style.

Fire! Fire!

Topeka, Kas.—Plans for fire prevention week just had to wait. As the committee was taking up its work the night bell went off and Fire Chief William Cawker dashed away. A second alarm came in and the members spent the next three hours watching Chief Cawkers boys fight the worst fire in months.

Must Dress Up.

Chicago—Municipal Judge Erwin J. Hasten warned Mrs. Elinore Benninger that she "must put on something."

She was accused of posing as Venus at a Century of Progress.

Meanwhile he continued the case, declaring he would not "permit any open nudity in the city of Chicago."

Well, Well.

East Moline, Ill.—Richard Hamel, a professional crystal gazer asked the police to find his wife, who disappeared.

Knits Rav'ld Sleeve of Strike.

Brownsville, Pa.—Sleepiness overcame one strike in the bitumunlous coal fields. Children at Jefferson took a "holiday" and picketed the school, demanding: "Fire those kids whose fathers ain't (tsk! tsk!) members of the union. Fire teachers not in sympathy with our cause." The picket lines melted away along toward dusk as drowsiness set in, and pupils were back in school yesterday.

Day That Lasts for Months

Summer in Greenland lasts only one day, but it's a pretty long day. There are four months on end of continuous daylight. But this has to be paid for in winter, when the midnight sun gives way to the midday night. For there are four months of darkness—tempered by the moon and the aurora borealis—to balance the four of daylight. Only for four months out of the twelve do the Greenlanders have alternate day and night like ours.

Eagle Lifts 20-Pound Prey

The golden eagle is said to be capable of lifting and carrying prey weighing 15 to 20 pounds. The National Geographic Magazine questions this, however, stating that reports from reliable observers indicate that a weight of eight pounds is about the most one of these birds can carry. When larger prey is killed it must be eaten on the ground.

FARM BUREAU DAIRY PROGRAM ARRANGED.

The Farm Bureau dairy program for the coming year was arranged at a meeting of the county dairy committee on Tuesday evening at the court house in Kingston. The committee agreed that the factors which would have the greatest influence on the incomes of Ulster county dairymen during the coming year will be the production of cows, cropland and pastures. The factors which affect the production of cows are feeding, diseases and breeding. Other problems include the production of more and better legume hay, the improvement of pastures and ventilation of dairy barns.

To help dairymen meet these problems the committee arranged a complete program to be carried out during the coming year and in the future. To meet the immediate problem of feeding more carefully, the Farm Bureau will continue the dairy record service, including the Dairy Improvement Association, and offer dairymen the service of the Regional Dairy Record Club. One or more circular letters will be sent to at least 500 dairymen containing suggestions for more careful feeding according to production and the timely service letter known as the "Full Milk Pail," will be made available on request.

The problem of disease control will be limited to an educational program in coooperation with the New York State Veterinary College. One or more demonstration herds will be established in cooperation with local veterinarians and meetings will be held at these demonstrations. One or more seasonal letters will be sent out on disease control.

The matter of herd improvement through breeding is a long-time program. To build more profitable herds in Ulster county in the future, the better bull campaign will be continued. The proven sire program through the dairy improvement association will be continued and every effort will be made to influence dairymen to construct safety bull pens for the safekeeping of herd sires.

The production of more and better legume hay and pasture improvement are more important than usual because of the prospect of still higher feed prices. To help meet this situation the Farm Bureau will conduct a superphosphate campaign and secure at least 100 cooperators. The soil testing service for lime requirement will be offered and several pasture improvement demonstrations will be arranged. In addition to the special services enumerated, individual service on barn ventilation and drainage will be available.

In the absence of C. L. Allen, chairman of the committee, who was forced to be out of town, Albert Kurdt, manager of the Farm Bureau, was asked to act as chairman. Mr. Allen was, however, elected as chairman again for the coming year. Fred Morris of Ithaca, N. Y., assistant state county agent leader, was present and helped develop the program. Others present included B. H. Decker of Wallkill, Albert Myers and B. E. Davis of Kerhonkson, John Schoonmaker, Accord, Pratt Boice and John Beatty of Kingston. Several members of the committee were unable to attend.

Legion Auxiliary Annual Meeting

Mrs. Conrad J. Heiselman Chosen President of American Legion Auxiliary for Coming Year—Other Officers Chosen.

The annual meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary of Kingston Post, No. 150, was held Friday evening, September 29, in the American Legion Memorial Building and was largely attended by the members. Following the transaction of routine business, the retiring president, Mrs. John S. Metzger, gave a concise and comprehensive report of the activities and accomplishments of the auxiliary during her term of office, and expressed her appreciation to the officers, chairmen of standing committees, and of the various other committees, and to the members who have so readily cooperated, and thus contributed toward bringing the year to such a successful close. Much credit is due Mrs. Metzger and her staff of officers for the excellent manner in which they have conducted the affairs of the Auxiliary during a year of economic stress which has made it a difficult one for all organizations. From the annual report of the retiring president it is noted that financially as well as in carrying out its program of welfare and patriotic work and in community service, the Kingston unit has just completed a gratifying year.

The names of the candidates for election were then presented and the following officers were duly elected: President, Mrs. Conrad J. Heiselman; vice presidents, Mrs. Raymond H. Woodard and Mrs. H. Thomas Decker; secretary, Mrs. Peter Carey, and treasurer, Miss Margaret McManus.

The members of the executive committee elected were Mrs. John S. Metzger, Mrs. Stanley Matthews and Mrs. Sam Peyer.

The newly elected officers were then presented by Mrs. Matilda Messinger, the sergeant-at-arms. Mrs. Messinger was also a member of the nominating committee whose name was inadvertently omitted from the list of that committee, as published in last Thursday's Freeman.

Mrs. Stanley J. Matthews then took charge of the meeting and conducted the installation. This ceremony, while comparatively a short one, was dignified and impressive in its simplicity. Mrs. Matthews brought appropriate messages to the incoming officers and those who were retiring, and on behalf of the members of the Auxiliary, presented to Mrs. Metzger the symbol of Past President of the American Legion Auxiliary, a very beautiful gold pin, set with pearls, and bearing the insignia of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Mrs. R. H. Woodard presented the newly-elected and past presidents with corsage bouquets of tea roses, speaking briefly but in a charming manner to Mrs. Metzger and Mrs. Heiselman, who responded graciously, expressing their appreciation.

The meeting then adjourned and an informal reception to the new officers was held. Later in the evening Mrs. Joseph Sills invited all to adjourn to the large meeting room of the Kingston Post, where with the past and present presidents and other officers in the places of honor a delicious supper was enjoyed. The scene, as the guests entered the room, was a long-to-be-remembered one in the minds of all present. The room was in entire darkness, save for the lighted candles on the single long table, which was beautiful with its decorations of gorgeous autumn flowers, the softly glowing tapers and the attractive table appointments. The Legion colors of blue and gold were carried out in the decorations, linen and every detail. Mrs. Sills and her assistants, Mrs. E. Geschwinder, Mrs. A. Messinger and Mrs. T. Wilson received hearty thanks for their part in making this meeting one of the most enjoyable the Auxiliary has held.

EASTMAN SCHOOL OF MUSIC ACCEPTS MISS LAWATSCH

Miss Eleanor Lawatsch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Lawatsch of 109 East Chester street, has been accepted as a member of the entering class of the Eastman School of Music of the University of Rochester. Miss Lawatsch will major in public school music.

The entering class this year numbers 115 members. The high standard of requirement of the Eastman School has this year been very rigidly adhered to in the admission of students. The number of rejections has been large. The class as now assembled includes students from 15 states and from France. In its membership are 13 graduate students, who come from other institutions to earn master degrees in the Eastman School of Music.

IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have roaring, buzzing noises in your ears, are getting hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness, go to McBride Drug Stores or your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal trouble of the ears, is hard of hearing or has head noises should give this prescription a trial.—Adv.

Industries Lag in New Soviet Five Year Plan

By STANLEY P. RICHARDSON.

Moscow (AP).—Results of the first six months of operation of the Soviet Union's second five-year plan show that the three most important branches of industry have failed to measure up to the program.

Despite that the general industrial plan for 1933 was much less ambitious than that for the preceding year, official figures show heavy industry, light industry and railroads substantially behind schedule.

Gain Over Last Year.

Heavy industry, however, had the satisfaction of seeing a 7.4 per cent gain in production compared to the same period in 1932.

Light industry, in which a wide increase was contemplated so as to give the populace badly needed manufactured goods such as clothing and household items, bettered last year's output by less than one per cent.

Transportation fell behind its 1932 mark on the basis of car loadings.

Heavy industry carried out only a fraction better than 42 per cent of the full year's production program, when its accomplishment should have been 50 per cent. Its troubles were attributed chiefly to shortcomings in iron and steel, although virtually every major branch was unable to accomplish its program.

Tractors in Slow Class.

Pig-iron production for the six months amounted to 36 per cent of the year's schedule of 9,000,000 tons, although it showed an increase over the first half of 1932 of 7.3 per cent.

Coal output reached 42.8 per cent of the program of 84,000,000 tons for the whole year but it, too, gained 3.9 per cent over last year.

Machine building, which includes the tractor, automobile and agricultural combine factories, fulfilled 44.8 per cent of the plan for the year of production valued at 6,500,000,000 roubles.

Basic chemical manufacture reached 43.9 per cent of the plan; nonferrous metals 31.1 per cent and building materials 28.7 per cent.

Light industry managed to achieve 94 per cent of its six months' program, resulting in a storm of criticism in the Soviet press which contends that its task easily was capable of fulfillment. Blame is placed on the generally bad organization of labor in this branch.

The glassware and leather industries made the poorest showing, carrying out less than 75 per cent of their half-year plans. Woolens, footwear and dry goods production was 95 per cent of the schedule, while the silk, knitted goods and linen industries exceeded their programs by about two per cent.

Rail Managers Ousted.

In both heavy and light industry gratifying increases in the productivity of labor were recorded, although in the latter much criticism continued to be leveled at the large amount of inferior products turned out.

The poor showing in transportation, which recently resulted in a wholesale shakeup of officials, is reflected in figures revealing that the daily average carloadings were 52,000, compared with 58,000 planned and 52,200 for the first six months of 1932.

Tattle-Tale

By MARY [illegible] BONNER

"Our first lesson, children," said Rip, the Dog, "will be in arithmetic. If a creature does not understand arithmetic he does not know how to get along in the world. What would happen, for example, if you did not know that two and two bones made four? If you thought they made three you'd be easily cheated out of the extra bone so you can see what an important study this is."

"Who cares about bones?" Brown Chick whispered to White Chick.

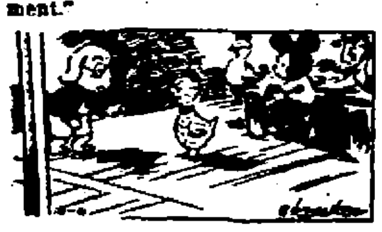
"There, there, Chickens, no whispering. If I catch you at it again you'll have to stay after school and scratch 'I must not whisper' twenty times on the blackboard."

"I don't see why we have to know anything about bones, either," whispered Baby Quack-Quack to Tiny Quackles.

"I hear more whispering! You'll have to stay after school, Baby Quack-Quack," barked Rip.

"You didn't tell Brown Chick he had to stay!" quacked Baby Quack-Quack, bursting into Duckish tears.

"I'll let you off this time," said Rip. "But from this minute any one whispering will be given punishment."



Speckled Chick held up a feather.

"What is it, Speckled Chick?"

"Please, Professor Rip, Brown Chick is whispering again."

At once all the pupils started quacking and cackling:

"Tattle-tale tit,
His tongue shall be slit,
And all the dogs in the town,
Will have a little bit."

"I cannot allow tattle-tailing," said Rip. "Speckled Chick, stand in the corner for ten minutes!"

ZOG MODIFIES DECREE AGAINST ITALIAN SCHOOLS

Tirania, Albania (AP).—After closing all Italian schools in Albania, then finding that Italy had cut into his finances, King Zog has held out an olive branch.

He has made the study of Italian obligatory in Albanian schools and stipulated that 40 per cent of Albanian students going abroad must study in Italy.

Whether this is satisfactory to Rome probably will come out before an Italo-Albanian commission now seeking a settlement of the difficulties.

Following the closing of the schools Mussolini stopped payments on a 10-year 100,000,000 gold franc loan extended to Albania in 1931.

NOTED AUSTRALIAN PILOT GIVES PRIZE TO CHARITY

Sydney, Australia (AP). — Sir Charles Kingsford Smith, the famous airman, has turned fairy godfather to sick country children of Australia.

He has given $5,000, the proceeds of a fund organized to show Australia's gratitude for his services to aviation, to found a rural hospital.

Sir Charles, known in America as plain "Smithy," would accept only a writing desk and a chair as his own reward.

Kingston: "Beauty For Sale". Beauty shop operators, rich young men, parties, dances, and all those essentials to a modern story are to be found in this talkie of a pretty girl and how she gets along in life. Madge Evans, Phillips Holmes, Alice Brady, Una Merkel, Otto Kruger and May Robson are to be found in the cast. A lavish picture with a fair amount of comedy and romance blended into the seriousness of the plot.

Orpheum: "Secrets" and "Ross-Canzoneri Fight Pictures." Mary Pickford returns to the screen after a long absence, and along with Leslie Howard and the directorial genius of Frank Borzage, her latest play, emerges as a romantic, idealistic picture of the American yesteryear. Ross-Canzoneri "Fight Pictures" are the official story of the recent world's lightweight championship scrap. Mickey Mouse also graces the program in one of his whirlwind screen treats.

Broadway: "Secret of the Blue Room." Wild and weird mystery entertainment of a mysterious room which has been sealed up for over 20 years. Conflicting stories of death, destruction and terror make this room a tragic spot. Three rivals for the hand of a beautiful girl decide to test their bravery by staying in the room overnight. Suitor number one goes into the room and fails to reappear, suitor number two is shot to death, and suitor number three clears up the mystery about the place. Clever lighting effects and intelligent direction all help to make this mystery exciting and thrilling throughout. There isn't a letup in the suspense, and the work of Paul Lukas, Gloria Stuart, Lionel Atwill, Russell Hopton and Onslow Stevens is above criticism.

Tomorrow.

Kingston: "Night Flight". The struggle of man against nature is the reason for this picture, a daring, interesting and brilliant story of man's desire to conquer the air and make flying possible in all types of weather and the darkness of night. John Barrymore as the manager of the air-line has but one desire, to fly the mails regardless of the weather. Reports of bad weather over the Andes or the Pampas do not stop him from sending his pilots through just the same, often with resulting tragedy. The thrills are numerous in this talkie, as the pilots buck through the darkness, fly blind, or are lost in the storms they must fly into. Some of the finest air scenes ever taken in one picture are to be found in "Night Flight", and although the plot centers around the grim determination of man to better nature with its resulting catastrophes, the excellent photography, cast and general lavishness of the production makes up for the negligible qualities of the story proper. John Barrymore, Lionel Barrymore, Helen Hayes, Myrna Loy, Robert Montgomery, Clark Gable, and William Gargan are members of a giant cast. The direction is by Clarence Brown. Worth seeing.

Orpheum: Same.

Broadway: "I Loved A Woman". Edward G. Robinson, whose character portrayals of the past have been good enough to raise him to the heights of stardom, contributes another outstanding performance in this realistic story of a wealthy son of a great meat packing company who finds the finer things of life more to his liking than the wearing demands of business. He has to enter business however, and much of his life is influenced by two women, played by Kay Francis and Genevieve Tobin. His struggle with himself, his mistakes, his own failings and misgivings are real and understanding, and again Mr. Robinson demonstrates his remarkable ability to completely live the part he is playing. In the final stage of the picture, we find him, an old man, who seeks refuge and peace in Greece where death overtakes him. Highly dramatic, brilliantly acted by the entire cast, this show is one of Mr. Robinson's best. Worth seeing.

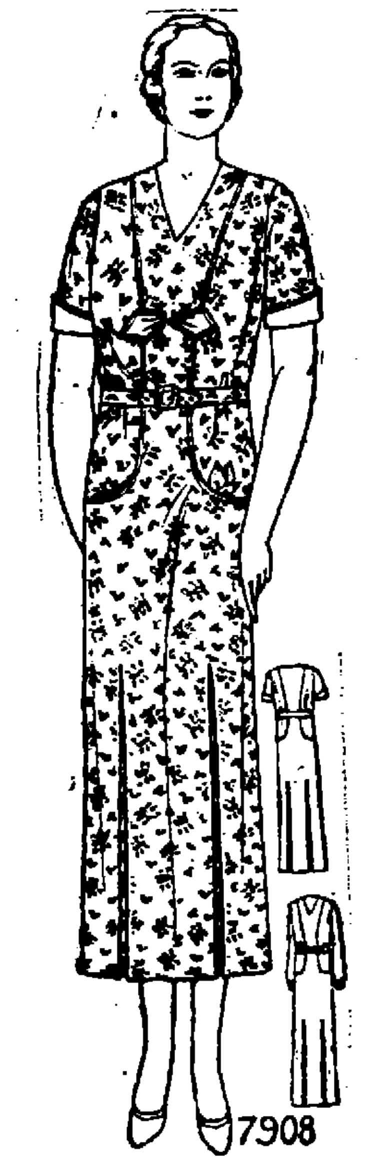
OUR DAILY PATTERN.



A Pleasing Frock For House or Porch (For the Larger Woman)

7908. This model interprets slenderizing lines, and comfort for women of mature proportions. It is a graceful and becoming style, with inserted pockets and a choice of two styles of sleeves. One in bishop style is wrist length finished with a band cuff, the other short and trimmed with a shaped upturned cuff. Plait inserts lend additional fulness to the straight line skirt sections. A narrow belt holds the fulness of the dress at the waistline, and a novel tie creates a trimming touch. Printed pique was used in this instance. Linen, tub silk, or percale is also suggested.

Designed in 8 sizes: 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 46 will require 4⅜ yards of 32 inch material together with 1-3 yard of 35 inch material for the tie and cuffs in contrast, if made as in the large view. If made without contrast and with long sleeves and of 35 inch material, it will require 4½ yards. The width of the dress at the lower edge with plaits extended is 2⅝ yards.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Fashions by Eleanor Gunn

May West Influence May Be Disturbing

New York—We have already waxed enthusiastic over the draped shoulder line for the girl whose shoulder warrants exposure. Now we wish to draw attention to the somewhat tailored manner in which this romantic line is attached. There are dresses rather severely banded at this point and there are others with ruchings in the manner shown. And speaking of shoulder treatments, there are some with tiny rhinestone shoulder straps too. If that isn't turning back the clock just what is? Who remembers the camisole line? Well here it is again, and done with jeweled shoulder straps, too.

One naturally expects a good many dissenting votes against he glamorous and grandeur of dresses in the Mae West manner. There are those who "just can't see them" and as you already know there are many to be seen. May your conscience be your guide in this matter, but whatever you do, don't attempt to wear that sort of thing excepting late in the afternoon or evening.

Among the interests to be commented on are the clever uses of embroideries, not too much, just enough decoration and in just the right place. The lower part of the sleeve is a favorite spot to introduce embroidery or some distraction, like a contrasting color or fabric. Sleeves, you see, continue to be very ornamental but they do hold themselves in leash and are nothing like as liable to get full as they were in the beginning of their inflation.

We have mentioned capelets many times, but hardly enough. One is not able to get a very attractive array of separate capelets made of everything from embroidery, beads, sequins, ribbons, ruches, lace and what not, right at the neckwear counter, and how they do improve a model and our morale.

MEET MISS WEST

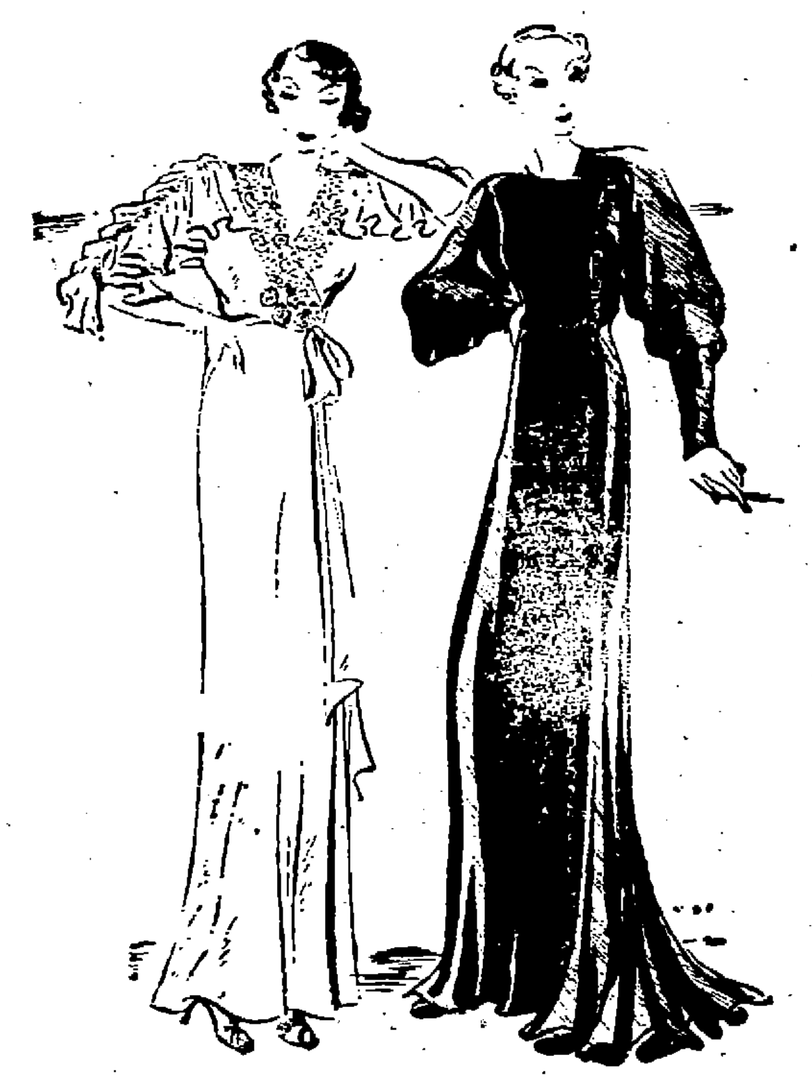
The frock, in black velvet, in formal mood, introduces an interesting off-the-shoulder neckline, marked by black net which stands up in crisp ruche fashion, the ruche punctuated by black ostrich tips.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

Among the many sport types now being shown for campus or country wear is an imported tweed topcoat that has a detachable chamois lining removed by means of a slide fastener.

For Your Newly Acquired Leisure



Copyright, 1933 by Fairchild

A light blue satin negligee is individualized by shirred sleeves in the Augustabernard manner, which give the suggestion of a small capelet. Alencon lace outlines the surplice closing.

A wine color transparent velvet hostess gown with trailing skirt is buttoned from neck to hemline with matching buttons closely placed. The bodice is cut on easy dolman lines.

LAKE KATRINE HOME BUREAU ANNUAL RALLY

The Lake Katrine Home Bureau held its annual rally at the home of Mrs. John Dederick, Mt. Marion, on Wednesday, September 20. Twenty-five members were present. An enjoyable luncheon prepared by the members was served in the lovely shady grove of Mrs. Dederick's home at noon, after which songs and games were enjoyed for a short time. The regular business meeting, which followed, was given over to the election of a new secretary, collection of yearly dues, discussions on the organization of a dramatic unit, working out of the yearly program and its various phases, together with welfare work to be conducted in cooperation with the local Red Cross.

The next regular business meeting will be held Friday, October 13, at the home of Mrs. Charles Auchmoody on the Saugerties road.

VALLEY SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION MEETING

The convention of the Rondout Valley Sunday School Association will be held in the High Falls Reformed Church on Friday evening, October 27, at 8 o'clock.

The Rev. Arthur Oudemool of Mt. Marion Reformed Church will be the principal speaker of the evening. The junior sermon will be given by the Rev. Glenn of the Napanoch Methodist Church.

Delegates should bring total enrollment of the school and average attendance in Sunday school sessions from May 21, 1933 through October 22, 1933.

Delegates should also have the enrollment of scholars 12 years of age and over. No credit will be given for children under 12 years of age at the convention.

A large representation from your Sunday school will help to make this meeting a success.

"TIRED MARY" TUCKER IS CONVINCED
THERE IS A FAR FASTER SOAP THAT GIVES STILL WHITER WASHES
JOHN, I'M SO TIRED AFTER THAT BIG WASH I DID TODAY— I SIMPLY CAN'T TAKE ANOTHER STEP.
YOU'RE ALWAYS LIKE THIS MONDAY NIGHTS, MARY. BUT LOOK AT PEG WALSH. PEPPY AS CAN BE — AND HER WASH MUST BE A WHOLE LOT BIGGER THAN OURS.
SHE'S ALWAYS THROUGH EARLY, TOO— WITH THE WHITEST LINE ON THE BLOCK. I DON'T SEE HOW SHE DOES IT!
WELL— WHY NOT ASK HER? SHE MAY HAVE FOUND SOMETHING THAT'S BETTER AND FASTER THAN THAT BAR SOAP YOU USE!
NEXT DAY—
PEG- HOW IS IT YOU ALWAYS GET YOUR CLOTHES ON THE LINE SO QUICK —AND ALWAYS HAVE SO MUCH PEP WASHDAY EVENINGS? HAVE YOU FOUND SOME NEW, EASY WASHING TRICK?
NO TRICKS, DEAR— JUST A WONDERFUL NEW GRANULATED SOAP CALLED OXYDOL. IT WASHES SO MUCH EASIER AND FASTER THAT I'M ALWAYS THROUGH BY TEN.
BUT MY MOTHER ALWAYS THOUGHT BAR SOAP WAS THE BEST—NEVER HAD ANY USE FOR THESE NEW-FANGLED THINGS.
NEITHER DID I—UNTIL I SAW HOW MUCH WORK OXYDOL SAVES—HOW MUCH SAFER IT IS FOR CLOTHES. I WOULDN'T GO BACK TO BAR SOAP FOR A THOUSAND DOLLARS NOW. TRY IT ONCE —YOU'LL SEE.
PEG-YOU CERTAINLY WERE RIGHT ABOUT OXYDOL. I JUST SOAKED THE CLOTHES 15 MINUTES — DIDN'T RUB AT ALL— AND MY LINE IS SO WHITE IT SIMPLY SPARKLES. I NEVER DREAMED THAT WASHDAY COULD EVER BE SO EASY.
WELL, CERTAINLY NOBODY CAN COMPLAIN ABOUT YOUR PEP THIS WASHDAY, DEAR. YOU'RE WONDERFUL— JUST LIKE BEFORE WE WERE MARRIED!
THAT'S BECAUSE I STOPPED SCRUBBING AND RUBBING CLOTHES, HONEY. PEG WALSH HAS NOTHING ON ME NOW — I'M USING OXYDOL TOO.

HERE is a new scientific soap development that has already revolutionized washdays in more than a million homes. A creation so utterly amazing that women everywhere are asking and exclaiming—"Will the wonders of science never cease?"

For—up to now—women believed that everything science could possibly accomplish to make washdays easier and clothes whiter, had already been done. But today are finding that they were wrong.

They believed they had the fastest way already. And then found that even the fastest soap that science had hitherto devised was slow, compared to this new invention.

They believed that science had already shown them the way to the whitest washes they could possibly get. But are now amazed by still whiter washes than they've ever known before.

So, is it any wonder that millions are now quitting their former favorites—old-style "granulated soaps," bars and flakes—for this utterly new and different kind of soap!

A Remarkable NEW Invention

This new and improved soap invention is called OXYDOL. And it does these things. Things no other soap can do or has ever done before:—

First: It cuts washing time 25% to 40%. And thus saves hours of labor.

Second: It works utterly without back-breaking rubbing, without scrubbing. For it works by dissolving dirt. You can throw your washboard away.

Third: It makes clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter (by scientific Tintometer test) than old ways. Whitens them so boiling is unnecessary. Yet it cannot fade or injure fabric or color.

Fourth: It is as kind to the hands (and to clothes) as the finest toilet soap. For it is created by America's most famous soap makers—the makers of gentle "Ivory."

Do you wonder then that women by the thousands are daily turning to it?

How It Works

This remarkable soap invention works an entirely different way. Due to a new and improved combination sought by science for years. One that makes soap twice as quick-acting, yet leaves the "harshness" out.

First there are special mild elements to soak out dirt—dissolve it—take it out like magic. These are blended with particular elements to protect colors against fade.

But that's not all. This combination is specifically fitted to water conditions of the DISTRICTS where it is sold. Old time soaps are not. The water in THIS DISTRICT, for instance, has been tested by famous chemists. And the new, improved OXYDOL you get here is specially fitted to it!

That is why OXYDOL gives abundant suds almost instantly. Suds like rich dairy cream that's been whipped. Suds that "stand up" in any kind of water. Suds that stay in action until their work is done!

No wonder women are flocking to OXYDOL—telling one another about it—using it every washday.

Once you try it—and see how unbelievably clean and sweet it gets your clothes after only 15 minutes' soaking—you'll never go back to rubbing and scrubbing with wasteful, old-style soaps again.

See for yourself what OXYDOL is and does. It will change all ideas you ever had about washing. About whiter washes. About easier washdays.

These things we promise you. For your own sake, try it. Don't believe your present favorite is still the finest. Whatever its name, you'll find it completely outmoded and outdated by new, improved OXYDOL. Accept a package free for coupon. Or obtain at any store.

THEY PULL RESULTS

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

Again, I'm frank to say I wouldn't like to be a policeman. There were 214 jobless men. They had assembled in West side court to hear the case of an employment agent who had collected from them $10 to $12 each—where do jobless men get money they pay to gyp employment agents?—on the assurance that they would be given work. They got neither the work nor their money back. The employment agent pleaded guilty and was fined $25. That was all the magistrate could do—the law setting a limitation on the punishment for an offense of that nature. True, the agent could have been tried on 213 other charges with fines of $25 in each instance. But the $25 or any part of it would not go to the jobless men, most of whom had given that agent every cent they could scrape up. So there were mutterings among the 214 and the agent, perspiration starting from his forehead, looked about for protection.

That's why I repeated a statement made herein previously—possibly several times previously for all I know. In the court were many police with prisoners. Court attaches made a call on them for assistance. So they had to accompany that shrinking gyp agent down the stairway and out into the street where there were 214 angry men waiting for him. I saw the police go into action. They didn't use their usual tactics in dealing with a riot. But when the rush came, they did their duty. Taking it all in all, they were gentle, remarkably gentle, though they were far out-numbered and one policeman was injured. But they knew more about such things than jobless men and by and by the gyp agent got into a taxi and escaped. And I'm willing to wager that every policeman that took part in that combat wished that, for a minute or so at least, he could forget all about duty.

Along those same lines, though the police had no work to do, was the case of that man—a respected business man for 20 years—who was accused of swindling charwomen, scrubwomen, maids, chauffeurs and others out of their life savings—a total that may reach a million dollars. I didn't see that court room scene but a friend told me about it. The room was crowded with men and women who had laid away their savings penny by penny and then had invested them with the prisoner in the hope of providing for old age. Humble people they were all of them, my friend said, humble and grief laden because of the betrayal of their trust.

In this instance, the prisoner was in no physical danger. But the feelings of those present were expressed when the court set the alleged swindler's bail at $100,000. Cheers and clapping of hands followed! I wonder what swindlers do with money they obtain from charwomen, scrub women and others of the humble and lowly?

New York's greed for minutes is always being exhibited in the subway. Rushes for trains cause mob scenes and there is continual pushing and jostling in order to get to the forefront. But what I started to say was that the other morning at Ninety-sixth street, most of the passengers comfortably seated in a local train got off and forced their way into an over crowded express train in the hope of saving three or four minutes on the journey to Times square. Some way or other, it gave me a slight feeling of superiority when the express train, delayed by line congestion, pulled into the station several seconds after the local.

Street scene: A somewhat sedate looking man sitting on a bench near the Soldiers and Sailors monument on Riverside drive with his head very close to that of a slim, young blond whose fingers were interlocked with his. Off to one side and apparently entirely unnoticed, a determined-looking woman taking a snapshot of the couple!

Horse Swapping Takes in Old Automobiles Now

Joplin, Mo.—Hoss tradin' is regaining something of its former stability and enthusiasm in the Ozarks.

The itinerant trader, going about the countryside leading, or driving, a small string of work animals, is increasing in number. The stock is mainly good substantial animals, for which the farmer may have a greater need than he has for some article on hand.

There's a new twist to the horse trading. These days the traders prefer taking in old automobiles. There's a cash market for them, while old horses may be worth no more than $1.75 per 100 pounds for the soap factory.

Famous "Painted Rock" Is Found Under Street

Mexico City.—The famous "Painted Rock," archeological monolith more than 6 feet long, has been located under the streets of Mexico City, according to a statement by Alfonso Caso, director of the National museum. The monolith, which contains valuable historical data of the pre-Hispanic epoch in Mexico, is at a street intersection near the Mexico City cathedral, according to Professor Caso's calculations.

One of Life's Little Jokes

The child of our neighbors has eaten, from birth,
Just the things that he wanted—from pickles to earth.
Now our child has eaten the things which he should,
Regardless of whether he thought them so good.
Yet the child of our neighbors seldom is ill,
And we're always paying on some doctor's bill.

As soon as a man gets wise enough that it's a pretty hard job to fool him, everybody refers to him as a regular old knocker.

Man—There's a decided uniformity in the contents of my mail this morning, Julia.

His Wife—How do you mean, dear?

Man—About all my letters begin with the same word—"Unless."

Overall plants report an increased demand for their products during the last three months. Well, if anything turns up we'll be dressed for it.

Fly Fisherman—Did you catch all those trout with nothing but worms?

Boy—Oh, no! There was brains at the other end of the line.

God created the world in six days, and the nature of the job is shown by the fact that it has taken men centuries to wreck it.

Sergeant—Say, Top, how would you like to lend a friend a five?

Top Sergeant—Buddy, I'd like it, but I haven't a friend in the world.

"Police Notice: Locate airplane flown by young woman of high wing monoplane type with green fuselage and orange nose."

The doctor ordered the old minister to take some hot whisky daily.

Patient—But doctor, I'm afraid that my housekeeper would object and leave me.

Doctor—She need never know. Just tell her you want some hot water for shaving.

Some weeks later the doctor called to inquire about the old minister.

Housekeeper (quavering) — He's gone mad, sir. The poor unfortunate gentleman is shaving himself morning, noon and night.

Respect or appreciation does not always go to the man who most deserves it.

Mr. Dumm—It doesn't take much to turn a woman's head.

Miss Smarte—That's right. One just turned to look at you.

Simple Truths....Never take a man's last dollar. He's liable to turn around and borrow five from you...Several men want jobs so they can get a vacation....Officials claim to be practicing economy. No man ever claims he's sober until he's drunk...Throwing his hat in the ring won't elect a man nowadays. He has to toss in his pocketbook, too....Women don't mind dieting themselves but they hate a man around the house on a diet....An ambitious wife is many a man's self-starter....Some people think that wishey-washey is a Chinese laundryman....The gay young butterfly often gets her wings singed from a love match....Many matrimonial bonds are of short term variety....That all men are created equal is one thing everybody says and nobody believes....Only a skillful girl can chew gum so that nobody will notice it....We don't hear so much about the wolf at the door nowadays. Maybe the beast got in and starved to death....As wise men do not need it and foolish men will not take it, we keep our advice tightly corked....Mid pleasures and palaces though we roam, we still long to raid the ice box at home....

Young Author—The art of telling a story consists of knowing what to leave unsaid.

Married Rounder—It doesn't make any difference, my boy. My experience is that she finds out, anyway.

A girl used to teach school because she couldn't get married, now she can't get married because she would lose her job teaching school.

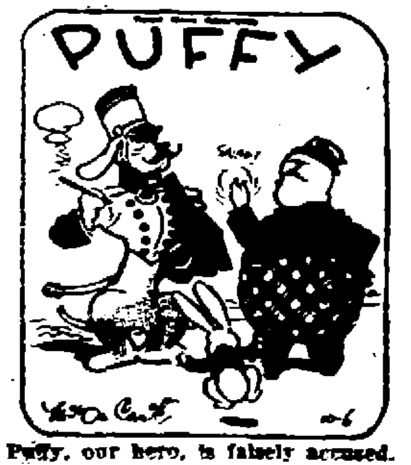
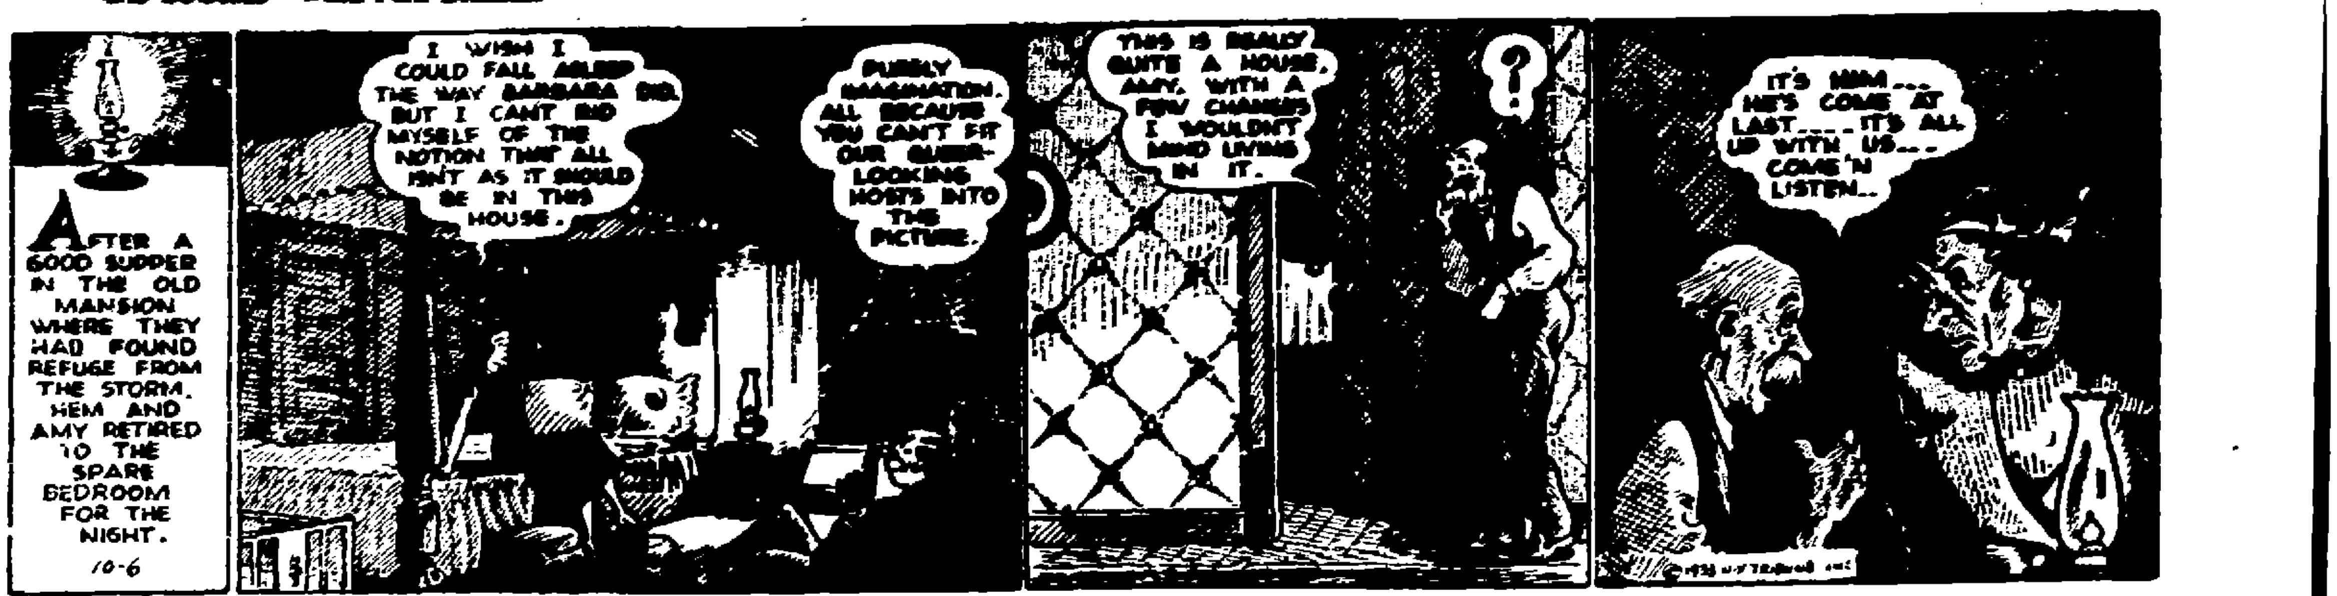
Ductless Glands

Ductless glands are those glands of internal secretion in the human body. There are thought to be about a dozen of them, the more important of which are the thyroid, adrenal and sex glands. All of these glands have internal body secretions which regulate human growth and mental ability.



Puffy, our hero, is falsely accused.
Count Costo shouts wildly, "My toes have been bruised!
We'll duel, my fine porker. It's your turn to say
What manner of weapons we'll use in the fray!"

GAS BUGGIES—When Peril Beckons.



AFTER A GOOD SUPPER IN THE OLD MANSION WHERE THEY HAD FOUND REFUGE FROM THE STORM, HEM AND AMY RETIRED TO THE SPARE BEDROOM FOR THE NIGHT.

I WISH I COULD FALL ASLEEP THE WAY BARBARA DID. BUT I CAN'T RID MYSELF OF THE NOTION THAT ALL ISN'T AS IT SHOULD BE IN THIS HOUSE.
PURELY IMAGINATION. ALL BECAUSE YOU CAN'T FIT OUR QUEER-LOOKING HOSTS INTO THE PICTURE.
THIS IS REALLY QUITE A HOUSE, AMY. WITH A FEW CHANGES I WOULDN'T MIND LIVING IN IT.

Chest Clinic Each Monday Morning

Every Monday morning between 10 and 12 a. m., a chest clinic to further promote an early diagnosis is held at the county hospital on Golden Hill. Dr. Fred Holcomb and Dr. George Weber are the examining physicians. These clinics are of inestimable value to the community and it is hoped those having symptoms referable to the chest will make application through their family physician or if their be no family physician call Miss Murphy, County Nurse, 74 John street. All contacts of known cases are expected to have an examination at least every six months or a year as the examiner sees fit. For further information call County Hospital 4030.

The Bandbox

The bandbox dates back probably 200 to 300 years. It takes its name from the fact that the box is made out of a wide circular band of paper or pasteboard with top and bottom added. The name of the inventor is unknown.

Action of the Brain

In right-handed people the left hemisphere of the brain or nerve center is dominant, explains a professor of the University of Wisconsin, while in left-handed people, the right brain hemisphere is "the boss" of a person's actions.

MARLBOROUGH COMMUNITY COMMITTEE MEETING

The annual meeting of the Marlborough Farm Bureau community committee was held at the home of Theodore Baker on Tuesday evening. Mr. Baker is chaiman of the committee. Other members present were William Swartz and Benjamin Chillura. W. J. Clark, assistant manager of the Farm Bureau, was present to assist in developing the local program and make final plans for the membership drive.

The local program arranged will include an all day winter meeting on fruit growing, an all day meeting on tomato growing, a pruning demonstration and three twilight meetings on timely spraying problems. The community will also cooperate in the county-wide spray information service and approved the market information service now being sent out to fruit growers.

Mixtures of Black and White

As applied to the intermingling of the black and white races, a person of one-half negro blood is a mulatto; one-fourth, a quadroon, and one-eighth, an octoroon.

Most Kitchens Were Designed By Men

But Women Have To Use Them

THE AVERAGE HOUSEWIFE spends more of her time in the kitchen than in any other room, and probably more time at the sink than at any other point in the kitchen. Yet in most kitchens, even in modern homes, there is only a single lighting fixture, so placed that the body casts a shadow over the sink itself. This not only makes thorough dishwashing and other work at the sink more difficult, but may cause serious eyestrain. Fortunately the fault is easily remedied.

If you find the present lighting of your kitchen inadequate, call in our Home Service Director, who will gladly recommend needed changes. She has nothing to sell, and you place yourself under no obligation in calling for this consulting service. She will, however, indicate possible improvements and if you wish secure information on the cost to make them.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS and SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Jean Harlow is Hollywood's new symbol of glamor.

Always a personality to attract attention, if at the beginning only because of her striking beauty and her distinctive blond hair, Jean has had crowded into her 22 years enough of joy and tragedy, success and failure, to fill a full life span.

And she is now a bride again, for the third time, wed in a midnight air elopement to Yuma that was a distinct surprise to Hollywood and even to her close friends.

A Cinderella Story

Jean's first marriage, to Charles McGrew II, wealthy young Chicagoan, was a failure even before Harlean Carpenter came to Hollywood and became Jean Harlow. Even though Jean's family was well off, there is a touch of the Cinderella about her, for she began inconspicuously on a comedy lot.

It was "Hell's Angels" that launched her as Hollywood's "platinum blond," but it did not make her an actress—and Hollywood agrees that Jean is an actress now, and an actress of parts. It was "The Red-Headed Woman" that revealed Jean Harlow, comedienne. Before that, she played sirens, snobs, and hard-hearted "other women" almost exclusively.

Jean's marriage to Paul Bern, producer of that picture, was as much a surprise to Hollywood as his suicide two months later was a shock. Jean virtually retired from social life, and buried herself in work.

The cameraman on "The Red-Headed Woman" was Harold G. Rosson, known as Hal. He was behind the camera also on "Red Dust," and other Harlow films including her latest, "Bombshell." Jean was seen places with Hal Rosson, but to Hollywood he was "just a friend of the family"—until the news got out that he and Jean were married.

Ace Cameraman

Rosson is 38, small but sturdy, wears a mustache, is quiet and unassuming but not self-effacing. He is popular, and professionally is regarded as among the top-notch cameramen.

He would rather be behind a camera than facing one. He has been in the business 19 years, but marriage to a star has brought him for the first time into the eyes of a fan world that as a rule doesn't care much who is behind the camera as long as a star is facing it.

And the star he has married is—Hollywood's new symbol of glamor.

Talks to parents

Teasing Children

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

There is a type of adult who thinks it extremely funny to tease little children with threats of impossible consequences. Whether their own self-esteem is built up by the feeling of power which they thus get, or whether they are expressing a cruelty latent in their natures, they are examples of undeveloped personalities.

The child who impales insects on pins or pulls the wings from flies to watch them squirm, is no more cruel and lacking in human feeling than these wilfully brutal adults.

The threats often are made under the guise of discipline. So one little girl on touching a large pair of shears was told that she would have her ears cut off if she touched them again. For days afterwards she clung to her mother, haunted by the fear of losing her ears.

Another child whose mother was ill was constantly threatened by thoughtless adults that if she was not good her mother would be taken away. The child, already upset by her mother's illness, never, until she was grown, lost the fear of her mother's death.

Sometimes the threats are merely a form of idle teasing, and when the child takes fright it is accused of lacking a sense of humor.

Children have to learn to distinguish between fact and fancy, jest and seriousness. They have no experience of life or human nature to guide them, and are feeling their way through the confusing world in which they find themselves. They must learn to trust those about them.

There is nothing more pathetic than the bewildered and ingratiating smile with which a child responds to the sallies of adults. He is ready to meet them more than halfway if they seem friendly, and if they kill this trust they have broken their faith.

Closing Services.

The closing services of the four week revival campaign in The Ark of Salvation will be held this week. Tonight Evangelist T. LeRoy Muir will preach on "Not Far from the Kingdom." Saturday night there will be a social affair and reception to the evangelists, to which all people are cordially invited. Sunday afternoon at 2:30 the evangelist gives the story of his life and preaches the farewell sermon Sunday night at 7:30. Miss Edith Ruth Hasbrouck, director of the Ark, states that the services have been highly successful, people have accepted Christianity and many have been reclaimed. The evangelistic party goes on to other fields with the best wishes of the community. The services have been characterized by a sanity of preaching and methods that have appealed to people of all denominations. The party will preach at The Clove Christian Church on Monday night.

Ahavath Israel Services.

Beginning Friday evening, October 6, at 7:45 o'clock, services will be held every Friday evening in the Ahavath Israel Congregation at the corner of Spring and Wurts streets. Rabbi Samuel Epstein, a graduate of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, who was recently elected to fill the pulpit, will conduct the services and preach. The theme of the sermon will be "The Romance of a People." It will be discussion of the Jewish pageant now being shown in New York before a packed house every night. The public is cordially invited to be present.

your calendar

How many days in the month do you feel your best? You can add to these sunshine days by simply obeying nature's laws.

The first of these laws is regular elimination. Avoid common constipation by eating a delicious cereal.

Tests show Kellogg's All-Bran furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help aid regularity. All-Bran also contains twice the iron of an equal weight of beef liver.

The "bulk" in All-Bran is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much more pleasant than pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. Directions on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

BISURATED MAGNESIA

ot a laxative but the best friend any upset stomach can have.

An enemy to stomach gas—to fermentation—to acidity and sourness—to bloating. That's just what Bisurated Magnesia is. It's so supremely good and soothing that if it doesn't drive out gas and misery in 5 minutes—if it doesn't put your poor, upset stomach in fine working condition in one week, any druggist will return the purchase price—and it's almost as cheap as harsh, irritating, habit-forming soda—and much more efficient.—Adv.

PEDIGREE FAKERS DELUDE THOUSANDS

Scientist Says No Real Norman Blood Exists.

London.—Norman blood exists only in the handiwork of "pedigree fakers," said Lord Raglan, head of the anthropological section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, at the society's meeting at Leicester. Family trees purporting to reach back to the Norman conquest are the product of just another racket, Lord Raglan said.

The British scientist might have been talking to American suckers who come over every year to pay fistfulls of dollars in order to get their ancestry traced back to some duke or earl. Instead he was talking "turkey" to some of the oldest families in England.

He was the most outspoken speaker before 2,000 delegates gathered to discuss the 13 branches of science.

"In this country of the many families whose 'traditions' take them back to the time of the Norman conquest, it can be said without fear of contradiction that not one of these is a genuine tradition," the peer said. "All of them are the work of pedigree fakers who have flourished from very early times and there is not a word of truth in them.

"No English family can trace its descent to the Saxons and though there are a few families with a genuine Norman descent, this in no case goes as far back as the Eleventh century."

Lord Raglan mentioned some names. Sir Hereward Wake, thirteenth baronet, comes from a family claiming descent from the famous Saxon hero, Hereward the Wake, famous for his resistance to William the Conqueror. Lord Raglan declared that Sir Hereward was never called the Wake, that he was probably a mythological character anyhow, and that no member of the Wake family was christened Hereward until 1851.

He asserted that Robin Hood even should be left to the story books. Lord Raglan added that the location of Sherwood forest is uncertain, that a number of counties claim Robin Hood, and that the legends describe him as everything from an earl to a churl.

[illegible]tine Mother of Asbestos

When the earth's crust first hardened into rock, millions and millions of years ago, some of the veins in the rock were filled with a stuff called serpentine. It is this serpentine which is the mother of asbestos. Mined from rock in Georgia and Canada, serpentine is ground up into soft white pulpy stuff which is very light and quite tough. The pulp is then broken up, cleaned and carded like wool for weaving into cloth.

The Sam Browne Belt

The Sam Browne belt took its name from its originator, Gen. Samuel Browne of the British army. In the fall of 1858, during the Indian mutiny, General Browne lost his left arm. It was the loss of this arm which prompted him to devise a new belt to aid in supporting his saber. This belt, with some modifications, was later adopted by his fellow officers.

Kiwanians Heard About Arabians

Rev. James Armstrong, in Colorful Garb, Told of Experiences and Hospitality of Arabia.

Dressed in the colorful, gracefully flowing costume of the Arab, the Rev. James Armstrong of the First Presbyterian Church, addressed members of the Kiwanis Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday noon on Arabian customs, hospitality, forms of greeting, and gave personal experiences he had met in his visit to that picturesque land.

As a part of the entertainment G. C. Mullens and his trick dog, Fluffy Ruffles, produced a number of clever and amusing bits. The music and singing was in charge of Paul Zucca, assisted at the piano by Danny Bittner.

Announcement of the opening of night school was made from information received from Superintendent Van Ingen.

The prize posters of the Kiwanis Ball and Fashion Show Poster Contest, conducted among members of the art department of the high school, will be on display at Flanagan, Archer and Watkin's store, and other posters entered will be displayed in other store windows, beginning Saturday.

Harry Halverson, William Byrne, and Judge Joseph N. Fowler spoke briefly concerning the progress of the ball and fashion show plans, and the need for a large attendance to insure funds to carry out welfare projects of the club this winter.

The Rev. Mr. Armstrong was introduced by Clarence Rowland.

The speaker opened his remarks with a number of greetings used in Arabia, and explained that the people were very gracious in their address. He followed with stories of their famed hospitality, how it was possible and customary in visiting a shiek to be his guest free for three days. Other tales of the Arab, illustrating his love of animals, his adherence to the laws of the race and his duties to his fellow men, were told.

The Rev. Mr. Armstrong concluded his remarks with a description of the Arab costume.

The meeting then adjourned, after the speaker had received the thanks of the club, for an excellent and highly interesting address.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Stocks generally stuttered meaninglessly today as speculative and investment sentiment was of a mixed and highly cautious character. Minor gains and losses gave the list a decidedly spotty appearance.

The trading volume was considerably under that of the previous session.

Grains turned rather heavy and cotton and other commodities were a trifle irregular. Bonds maintained a fairly firm tone. The dollar moved up in foreign exchange dealings.

Small advances were made by shares of Celanese, Industrial Rayon, Sterling Products, Congoleumn, Allied Chemical, American Can and General Motors. Declines of fractions to a point or more were suffered by American Telephone, U. S. Steel, DuPont, United Aircraft, Case, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Standard Oil of California, Baltimore & Ohio, New York Central, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, U. S. Smelting, Dome, American Smelting, Cerro De Pasco, McIntyre Porcupine, National Distillers, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Socony.

Carrier stocks, as a whole, failed to exhibit any unusual enthusiasm over a reported increase in freight car loadings for the week ended September 30, of 9,158 over the previous week.

The Federal Reserve System reported a decline of about $16,000,000 in brokers' loans during the past week and some brokers said this indicated stocks were passing to stronger hands. Excess member bank reserves amounted to a little less than $750,000,000, compared with nearly $800,000,000 at the end of the previous week.

Wizard Steinmetz Had to Flee From Germany

Charles Proteus Steinmetz, the famous electrical engineer, was born on April 9, 1865, at Breslau, Germany, and was educated at the Universities of Breslau and Berlin, and at the Polytechnic Institute in Zurich, specializing in mathematics, chemistry, and electrical engineering. Forced to flee from Germany because of his Socialist convictions, he went first to Austria and Switzerland, and in 1889 came to the United States, where he eventually became the chief consulting engineer and head of the engineering department of the General Electric company, Schenectady, N. Y. He took an active interest in economics and politics, and though he remained a Socialist, with advancing years his views became greatly modified. In 1912 he was president of the board of education of Schenectady, and from 1916 to his death, July 19, 1923, was president of the common council.

Steinmetz's practical inventions cover the whole field of electrical appliances: among them the most important are the induction regulator, the method of place transformation as from two phase to three phase, and the metallic electrode arc lamp. His works include "Theory and Calculation of Alternating - Current Phenomena," "Theoretical Elements of Electrical Engineering," "General Lectures in "Electrical Engineering," "Engineering Mathematics," "Electrical Discharges, Waves and Impulses," "America and the New Epoch," and "Four Lectures on Relativity and Space."

Water Vapor Is Needed to Sustain Animal Life

Disaster in many forms would come to the earth if the odds and ends of the atmosphere were tampered with in some way, according to data assembled by United States weather bureau, says Science Service.

Without water vapor, which even in the wetter parts of the earth constitutes only 1 per cent of the atmosphere, no plant and no animal life would be possible and the whole earth would be as dead and barren as the moon. There would be winds, but never a shower. Clouds would be everywhere, though only of fine pulverized rock such as now fills, some believe, the atmosphere of the planet Venus.

The small amount of carbon dioxide in the air, it is explained, is absolutely essential to plant life and, since all animal life is dependent, directly or indirectly, upon plants, the removal of carbon dioxide would result in the extinction of life on earth.

High above the earth, some twenty to thirty miles, there is an amount of ozone so small that if brought together at average outdoor temperature and pressure it would make a sheet only about a tenth of an inch thick. If this gas were removed our eyes would soon go blind from the action upon them of that portion of the ultra-violet solar radiation which at present it shuts out completely. If, on the other hand, the quantity of ozone were increased several fold the ultra-violet light now reaching earth would be excluded, no vitamin D would be formed by it and there would be a rapid extinction of most if not all animal life, including man.

Harry Christie, formerly a resident of Kingston for 13 years, was killed in a 20-foot fall from a telephone pole at Amsterdam last Monday, while at work as an inspector of equipment of the Western Union Telegraph Company. A report says Mr. Christie was equipped with a safety belt which linemen wear when working on poles, but the precaution proved useless when the pole itself snapped and hurled him to the pavement. Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at Glock's Funeral Chapel, Schenectady, the Rev. H. Victor Frelick, pastor of the State Street Presbyterian Church, having charge of the religious rites. Interment was in Parkview cemetery, Schenectady. Bearers were members of the Odd Fellows in which lodge Mr. Christie was very active. He was a past chief patriarch of Dorpian Encampment, 126; past district deputy grand chief patriarch of the Schenectady District Encampment; a past grand of Champlain Lodge, 554, of which he also was a trustee; president of the Temple Association and a member of Friendly Hand Rebekah Lodge, 556.

PASSING STRANGE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THIS life is something passi
strange,
And full of change, yet passing chang
The minutes pass, the days, the yea
Joys pass, and yet so do our tears.
Yes, passing strange this life of ou
But winters pass as well as flowers;
We pass through pain, we pass throug
strife,
Pass through it all, and pass throu
life.

Yet, passing by, we much can do
To pass the worst, in passing throug
Consider evil past and gone,
But, knowing kindness, pass it on.
Old friendships pass, yet you and I
May make new friends of passers-by.
When friendship passes, why revile?
Still pass the old friends with a sm

This life is passing strange, we say;
Some even claim we pass away;
And yet the sun that passes west
Tomorrow passes yonder crest.
Some pass through life and think doubt,
Man passes through and passes out;
Yet life is but a passing phase,
And we pass on to brighter days.

Slave Owners Paid for Permit

Slave badges were expensive in 1834. Charlestonians paid as much as $7 a year for licenses, old tax laws reveal.

HOW—

FOREST FIRES ARE FOUGHT IN TALL TIMBER COUNTRY.—Usually forest fires are fought by cutting a line about them and digging a trench down to the mineral soil in front of the flames, says Charles Lathrop Pack of the American Tree association. This is called trenching. Once the flames reach the trench, they have no fuel on which to feed and so go out. But it is not always as simple as this.

Frequently fires jump across the best fire lines that man can make, and under heavy winds sparks have been known to leap over a quarter of a mile and start fires far in the rear of the fighters. In some regions airplanes patrol the forests in search of fire and often aid by giving the forest officers a bird's-eye view of large fires during the battle. New roads and trails are being built into the regions of greatest fire danger.

Each year the states and counties are protecting their forest lands against fire with greater effectiveness. In regions where most of the timber lands are owned by farmers, the timber owners are each supplied with fire extinguishers and other fire-fighting tools and are expected to join together in fighting any fire that breaks out in the woodlands in their neighborhood.

Each timber owner is thus insured the protection afforded by the joint efforts of his neighbors if a fire should happen to break out on his property. Where large tracts of forest lands are owned by timber companies as for example in the northwest, several of these companies often join together for the mutual protection of their timber.

How Sponges Are Kept Alive by Ocean Water

When you take a sponge to your bath, you go in company with the skeleton of a creature which never had a mouth, says Answers Magazine.

The fibers of your sponge are the bones of this elastic creature which once lived in the Mediterranean, or on the shores of the West Indies or Australia. It was kept alive by currents of water flowing through it, bringing it oxygen and minute particles of food, while washing away waste matter.

Yet it had no mouth or any separate organ. Any fragment of a living sponge will live and grow if separated from the parent.

We have one mouthless insect—the mayfly. It usually lives but a few hours, and has no need of food.

But though mouthless, it has a stomach. However, this is filled only with gas, which keeps it buoyant as it dances above the river wherein it was reared.

How Bronze Statues Are Made

In making a bronze statue the sculptor first models the figure in clay. A gelatin mold is then made of the original and a wax model made by pouring heated wax into the assembled gelatin mold. A plaster mold is then made around the wax figure, pipes being left in the plaster so that the wax may melt and run off when placed in a kiln and baked. The plaster mold is then placed in a pit and packed solidly with earth, and molten bronze, at a temperature of 1,900 degrees, is poured into it. When cool the bronze statue is finished, a blow torch and liquid chemicals being used to obtain the desired color effects. There are several methods of casting the final statue, but this is typical. The bronze statue of the Goddess of Freedom, on the Capitol at Washington, was cast in a foundry.

How Black Death Spread

Black Death was an acute infectious disease caused by a specific microbe which spread over the world in the Fourteenth century. It took its name from the black spots which appeared in the skin. In almost all cases the victim died within two or three days after the attack. The exact date of the appearance of the plague in China is unknown, but from 1333 to 1348 the mortality was great. In 1348 it spread to Europe, probably by various caravan routes. It is not possible to estimate the entire mortality produced by the plague because of lack of statistical data. In China 13,000,000 are said to have died and in the rest of the East nearly 24,000,000. London lost over 100,000, 13 European cities about 300,000, Germany, 1,244,000; Italy, one-half its population.

How Civil War Affected Us

J. R. Perkins, in his book, "Trails, Rails, and War," says: "The discovery was being made that certain men had enriched themselves while others fought and bled; that the chauvinists of the sixties were the bondholders of the seventies. The seventies was a period of disillusionment—the drab years after the panoply of war; for the land was filled with the halt and the diseased and the impoverished; agitators roamed at will; and social problems unknown in their particular form before the war now loomed on every political and industrial sky."

How "Almighty Dollar" Originated

It is believed to have originated with Washington Irving in his "Wolfert's Roost, Creole Village," published in 1837 in the Knickerbocker Magazine. The expression was popularized by B. E. Woolf, author of the comedy entitled "The Almighty Dollar."

Comedian Who Found Spot on Saturn

WILL HAY, one of the most popular stage comedians in England, has revealed that he is equally proficient in studying and understanding the planets and their ways. Hay is pictured with his six-inch refractor telescope in his home at Norbury, with which he detected a "spot," 20,000 miles wide, on the planet Saturn. The British Astronomical association has recognized Hay as being the first man to discover this spot.

First Wheat Farmer to Go Under A. A. A.

WITH his name on the dotted line, Thomas Peterson of Cass county, North Dakota, was the first farmer in the great spring wheat belt of the Northwest to apply for a contract under the provisions of the agricultural adjustment administration. He is shown here handing the signed application papers to the Cass county extension agent, E. A. Calhoun. An interested onlooker is Peterson's neighbor, E. W. Madison, also a wheat grower. After forty years of growing wheat, Peterson is now looking forward to co-operation with the United States Department of Agriculture and wheat growers throughout the country to solve the problem of getting a reasonable price for his product.

Senators Blank Giants In Third Contest, 4-0

Behind the flawless pitching of Earl Whitehill, southpaw ace, says the Associated Press, the Senators stepped out and clubbed down Fat Freddy Fitzsimmons in the third game of the World Series yesterday just as the Giants had slugged Wally Stewart and "General" Alvin Crowder in New York.

The victory for Washington by a 4-0 score was witnessed by only 25,727, second smallest turnout since the war, and the weather was rainy and chilly until President Roosevelt appeared and brought the sun with him.

Full of fight and dash, completely rehabilitated, the Senators, led by Myer both at bat and afield, never let up on Fitzsimmons and his knuckler until the verdict was clinched. With Whitehill's fast ball blazing over the corners under perfect control, his curve dancing past the Giants' bats, a single run would have been plenty.

EARL WHITEHILL

The Senators got two at the start on Myer's single through shortstop, Goslin's belt for two bases off the right field wall, Cronin's rap that Fitzsimmons slipped on the wet grass in fielding, though he got the Washington Manager at first, and Fred Schulte's double into right.

That skiddish turf may have decided the issue then and there and robbed Fitzsimmons of whatever chance he had for victory, though he was belted safely nine times in the seven innings before giving way to pinch hitter Homer Peel and relief pitcher Herman Bell. The fat one, considered the best fielding pitcher in baseball, had a simple play to get Myer at the plate, but as he slithered around, Buddy counted and Fitz had to recover quickly to get away a fine throw to catch Cronin at first.

Ossie Bluege's double to left and Myer's double that skimmed over first counted one in the second, and Luke Sewell's first hit of the series, a single, his steal of second when Mancuso threw wide trying to nab him at first, and Myer's third hit, a single to right center, added the fourth in the seventh inning.

For the third straight day the defeated team got five hits, but only once, in the second, did two come together. Fitz singled through short after Myer had robbed Ryan of a hit with a beautiful stab of his pop back of second. After Joe Moore forced the pitcher, he raced all the way to third on Hughie Critz's single over second. But Bill Terry failed then, just as he did in the eighth when another pair, Peel through his pinch single and Moore by Cronin's error, waited in vain to be driven in.

It was a bad day, too, for Little Mel Ott, the Giants' right fielder who banged out a homer and three singles in the first game. Mel fanned twice, hit one long fly, and walked once, in the ninth, only the second pass Whitehill issued. Travis Jackson's long double to center in the fourth was the only extra base hit off the southpaw. All told the Senators got four extra base knocks, all doubles, and all off Fitzsimmons.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Here's the all-star National League team one of my managerial friends selected, stipulating only that I omit his name because his comments and opinions could thus be more freely and impartially expressed:

First base—Terry, Giants.
Second base—Frisch, Cardinals.
Shortstop—Vaughan, Pirates.
Third base—Martin, Cardinals.
Right field—Klein, Phillies.
Center field—Berger, Braves.
Left field—Ott, Giants.
Catchers — Davis, Phillies; and Hartnett, Cubs.
Pitchers—Hubbell, Giants; Dean, Cardinals; and Warneke, Cubs.

Vaughan Over Bartell.

"One or two of these selections may call for some explanation," remarked the manager. "It is close between Vaughan and Bartell of the Phillies at shortstop. Both have great arms. Both are aggressive. Both are timely hitters. Vaughan, however, is a younger and faster man. He gets that extra step so vital to catching up with the ball of boating out a hit. He hits for longer distances.

"I prefer Martin over Traynor of the Pirates at third for somewhat the same reason. Martin covers more ground now than Traynor and has a more accurate arm. He is all ball-player and his success at third base this year is all the more remarkable when you consider it is his first season at that position.

"Ott may seem out of position in left field, but he knows how to handle it better than Klein and we need both in the outfield.

"Hubbell stands head and shoulders above the rest of the pitchers on this season's record. He is at his best in the tough spots and his control of his screw-ball is amazing. He is the one reason why I feel the Giants have a real chance to win the world series from Washington."

Medwick a "Natural."

Our conversational companion had some other obseravtions to make, all pertinent:

"Watch this Joe Medwick of the Cardinals. He's bound to become one of the greatest outfielders in the game. He's another natural player like Martin.

"Hal Schumacher should go better in the world series for the Giants than Freddy Fitzsimmons or Roy Parmelee. Schumacher has steadiness and a fine temperament, like Hubbell.

"The difference between a good ball player and pretty good ball player is that you win games with the one kind and lose them with the other."

WRESTLING LAST NIGHT.

(By The Associated Press)

Toronto—Earl McCready, 230, Amulet, Sask., defeated Buck Weaver, 248, Chicago, straight falls.

St. Paul—Abe Kashey, 206, Warren, O., threw Jack Haider, 202, Kansas City, 29:00.

Cincinnati—John Paul Jones, 212, Houston, Texas, threw Tommy Martin, 209, in 24:00.

Starlings Have Multiplied

In 1877 starlings were turned loose in Central park in New York, and again in 1887, but the colonies did not survive. Then in 1890 and 1891 starlings once more were turned loose in Central park and from these descended the myriads that now flutter and chatter from New York to Texas.

Shone In Season's Biggest Upset

The football forecaster took it on the chin when Coach Ossie Solem's surprising Iowa eleven administered a 7 to 0 licking to Northwestern in the Big Ten opener. Dick Crayne (left), sophomore fullback, is the lad who ripped the Purple line to shreds and paved the way for a touchdown dash by Joe Laws (right). Coach Solem, above, has a right to grin.

Kias Optimistic As He Announces Probable Starters

Coach G. Warren Kias seemed very optimistic today concerning Kingston High School's football game with the highly reputed Peekskill eleven Saturday afternoon at the Kingston Fair Grounds. He appeared well satisfied with the way the Maroon squad has shown up in practices during the week and from all indications expects his gridders to hammer out a victory over the down-river pigskin toters.

Winning from Peekskill should be no easy task for the Maroons, although they trampled over Monticello 39-0 in their first game recently, showing very good form, because the Westchester county warriors of the gridiron use an attack that would become a college team, it is said. Last week Peekskill distinguished itself by scoring two touchdowns against Roosevelt High at Yonkers, at the same time holding their expert opponents to no score.

Kingston's probable lineup, Coach Kias said, would be as follows:

Starting time of the contest is 2:15 o'clock, and indications are that there will be action galore from the opening to the closing gun, with plenty of features to thrill the crowd that is expected to attend.

Majestics to Play Hasbrouck All Stars

Manager Jimmy Jafer, of the Hasbrouck All Stars, the team that defeated the North Rondout Social Club last week-end, has received the following letter from the Majestic A. C., Poughkeepsie, concerning the game next Sunday afternoon, starting at 3 o'clock:

Dear Jimmy:

Was glad to receive your letter and accept your invitation to play your Hasbrouck All Stars on your field Sunday, October 8. We will use our complete lineup with Sam Balogh pitching and Pete Kochis catching: Lezon, 1b; Dykes, 2b; Larry Bolog, ss; Ed Clark, 3b; Mike Joseph, lf; A. Kochis, cf; and Sonny Peterson, rf.

Have your men in shape because we mean to give you a harder fight than any club this season.

JOHNNY BABIARZ, Manager.

P. S.—We won 36 and lost 12 games so far. Not so bad, eh?

Manager Jafer hopes to see his club stop the Majestics from extending their winning ways and is confident that the battle will be well worth watching. He expects a large assemblage of fans to witness the contest.

Steam Shovel Reveals Natural Refrigerator

Superior, Mont.—A steam shovel operated in placer mining activities along Oregon creek, near here, recently made an important geologic discovery when it bit into a subterranean ice bed of unknown depth.

The ice deposit, apparently created by natural refrigeration, was found beneath five feet of slide rock. Of clear texture, the ice was followed for a length of 85 feet, and to a depth of 20 feet. It extended further downward, but how far the placer miners did not discover.

In the Series

This is the 18th and last of a series of personality sketches on individual stars of the New York Giants and Washington Senators.

FREDDIE FITZSIMMONS

New York (AP)—You haven't heard and read so much about Freddy Fitzsimmons this season as you have about some of the other Giants pitchers, but don't be surprised if he grabs off the headlines in the big series.

John J. McGraw, who, man and body, has been around quite a few world series, believes that the "fat and florid" Freddie is the Giants' best bet to halt the Washington Senators. Yessir, you can have Hubbell and Schumacher. McGraw likes Fitz, who is chubby in build, gets red in the face in the pinches and has the only fast "knuckler" in the business.

The big reason for this confidence in the veteran righthander is his experience, some eight years of it on the big league firing line. Fitz came to the Giants in 1925 from Indianapolis and in most years since has been the ace of the pitching staff. He's never had a really bad season. In 1928 he won 20 games against 9 losses, and in 1929 he won 19 and lost 7.

He fell off some last year, when he had a beaten, dispirited club behind him, but once the Giants caught the pennant fever this season Freddie came back strong. He attributed some of his improvement to the fact he worked off 20 pounds of excess weight during the winter. A week before the season ended he had won 16 and lost 11 games.

The Senators will find his knuckler bad medicine if Freddie happens to be "right." It's a queer one, breaking every which way, like a spitter. Usually it dips and the batter taps it to the infield.

Fitzsimmons is known as one of the greatest fielding pitchers in the game and as a dangerous hitter in the pinches. He broke up two games this year with home runs.

If Fitz does anything like that in the world series they will do some tall celebrating in Mishawaka, Indiana. That's where he was born back in 1901.

Ulster Gun Club Plans Weekly Shoots

Beginning tomorrow the Ulster County Gun Club will hold regular weekly shoots each Saturday afternoon.

During the summer the Saturday shoots were discontinued and practice shooting was done Thursday evenings.

The game shooting season is now near at hand and as usual members have requested the club to give them an opportunity to get in practice with the shot gun again. This action has been taken.

All shooters are welcome at these Saturday shoots whether members of the club or not.

Shakespeare Used Dictionary

Shakespeare resorted to a dictionary! Distressing as this sounds, such is the case, according to commentators. The Bard of Avon is supposed to have consulted not one but several volumes, when he got stuck for a word. Thomas' Italian Grammar was extremely popular among scholars of Shakespeare's day and he is supposed to have made use of it in writing many of his plays, especially Romeo and Juliet. Commentators frequently quote this work as authority for Shakespeare's use of certain words and terms. John Florio's World of Words, published in 1598, is believed to be the dictionary most used by the great dramatist.

Indians' Night Chart

The Pawnee Indians used a star chart, painted on elkskin, to guide them by night.

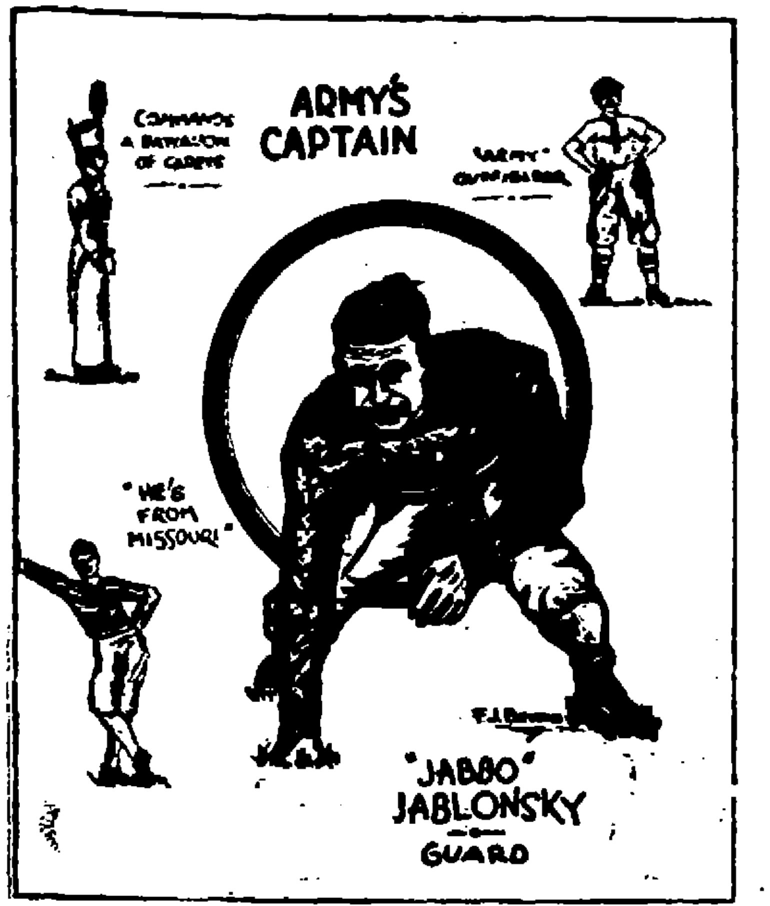
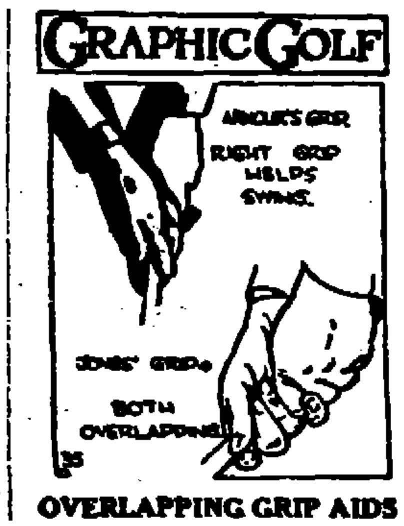
Efficient Cadet and Gridder



West Point, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Being one of Army's most valuable football players for the past two years, Harvey J. Jablonsky, guard, of Clayton, Mo., was elected captain of the 1933 team last fall. Because of his military efficiency, he is Cadet Captain in command of the 3rd Battalion of the Corps of Cadets. Jablonsky stands in the upper half of his class academically. He will lead the Army team against the Virginia Military Institute eleven here on Saturday, October 7.

Normal to Play Military Academy.

New Paltz, Oct. 6—The New Paltz Normal football team will play New York Military Academy there on Saturday, October 7.



OVERLAPPING GRIP AIDS WRIST ACTION

GOLFERS starting out to learn the game can aid their cause immensely by adopting a grip that will aid the proper hand and wrist action particularly at the top of the swing. By far the greater percentage of golfers find this ideal in the overlapping grip. In this grip the left thumb is down the right side of the shaft, the club somewhat in the palm and the last three fingers of the left hand furnishing a large part of the grip. The little finger of the right overlaps the first finger of the left so that the greater part of the clasp with the right hand is in the first three fingers. This allows plenty of hand and wrist action. Armour and Jones, whose grips are illustrated above, both use this grip as do numerous other members of the first flight.

Three-Wheeled Motor Car to Be Tested Soon

Bridgeport, Conn.—A new type motor car, radically different from any on the market, has been designed here by W. Sterling Burgess, yacht builder, and soon will be put on the road for tests.

Burgess, a former lieutenant commander in the navy, has designed the car much after the models of the class C dirigibles, which he developed. Wind resistance is cut 80 per cent, compared with that of the present models, he says, and the chassis is mounted on three wheels instead of the conventional four.

The cars are bullet shaped and come to a point in the rear. They are built to seat four people. The single wheel, at the rear, is used for steering. The front wheels drive the car, which is powered with an eight-cylinder motor.

Couples Exchange Mates and Begin Honeymoons

Bentonville, Ark.—While obtaining their 90-day Arkansas divorces in Bentonville, Mrs. Stuart McDonald, of New York city, and Mrs. W. B. Bradford, of Brownsville, Texas, leased an apartment together.

The husbands finally arrived, and after Chancellor Lee Seamster had granted the decrees Mr. McDonald married Mrs. Bradford and Mr. Bradford married Mrs. McDonald.

The First Jazz Band

The Royal Artillery band, which accompanies the Woolwich searchlight tattoo, was the only regimental band recognized and provided for in the estimates of 1829. In that year it consisted of 38 performers, including two negroes who played the big drum, the cymbals, and the "Jingling Johnnies." This apparently was the first official recognition of a jazz band.

Languages

The world is not yet near a universal tongue. There are still 830 languages and 5,000 dialects. Europe has 89 languages; Asia, 123; Africa, 114; America, 117; Islands of Pacific and Indian oceans, 417; Giuseppe Caspar, who died in Rome in 1849, is thought to have been the greatest linguist of all time. He spoke 114 languages and dialects.

Kit Carson as Mail Carrier

April 17, 1848, Christopher (Kit) Carson with a small escort left California for Washington, carrying the first United States mail ever taken overland from the Pacific to the Atlantic. This, says the Telephone Almanac, seems to have included the first announcement of the discovery of gold at Sutter's Mill. So slow was communication from coast to coast that this news was not printed in an Eastern paper until the middle of August. Its publication was the signal for the start of the historic stampede of the "Forty-niners." Thus began one of the most romantic periods of all communication history—the era of the Overland Mail and the Pony express.

Feeding the Multitude

The exact spot where Christ performed the miracle of feeding a multitude with a few loaves and small fishes is stated to have been located by a German historical society's representative in Palestine, according to information received at the Vatican. He found by the Sea of Galilee the remains of an ancient basilica answering to the description left by the pilgrim Silvia Aquitana at the end of the Fourth century of a basilica built over the spot where the miracle took place. Under the main altar was discovered an enormous block of stone on which it is claimed the Saviour sat while performing the miracle.

Old Time Horse Racing

Henry VIII was the first English monarch who seriously took up the sport of horse racing. Markham, who wrote in 1599, gave elaborate instructions how to train "Arabian coursers" for their engagements. His nostrums would amuse modern trainers. Among them were rules for anointing a race horse, the night before his contest, with neatsfoot oil, and for feeding him on white bread toasted. The last office, after saddling, is to inject strong vinegar into the nostrils of the horse to clear his wind!

Lied to Her

A young comedian related that his mother came to the theater to see him act. When he met her after the show she was in tears.

"Why, mother, what is the matter with you?" he asked.

"I never was more humiliated in my life than when you came on the stage," she sobbed. "You told me you were a good actor and all the audience did was to laugh at you."—Richmond News Leader.

Fooling Her

An Atchison maid overheard her mistress say: "I can always tell when the maid has dusted the pictures, because after they are dusted she leaves them hanging crooked." So now the maid, instead of dusting the pictures, gives them a little push, making them hang crooked. She says it saves a lot of time, and her mistress believes the pictures are dusted.—Atchison Globe.

Wasps Leave Food for Young

Many wasps kill their prey, such as crickets or caterpillars, and then bury them in the ground along with some eggs. When the eggs hatch, the buried caterpillar serves as food for the young.

ARE STILL AT WORK ON LINDBERGH CASE

Officials Have Hopes of Solving Mystery Soon.

New York.—They say they are going to "break" the Lindbergh case—the major crime mystery of the century, the kidnaping and murder of the baby son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Vague rumors adrift about police headquarters have it that the solution of the year and a half old case may come almost any day now. Twenty picked men of the undercover squad under the personal direction of Inspector John A. Lyon are working exclusively on the case night and day. In addition, the United States government has its ace investigator on the job directing a special staff of trained men.

Then, there's the New Jersey police in whose jurisdiction the shocking crime occurred, who have never relaxed their efforts to break down the criminal or criminals, to say nothing of the thousands of bank clerks throughout the country who are still scanning the bills that pass through their hands in the hopes of spotting one of those in the $50,000 ransom loot paid by the flying colonel in an ill-fated effort to recover his stolen child, to say nothing of the tens of thousands of police and detectives on the alert not only in every American city but at every civilized spot on the globe for any shred of evidence that might point to a solution of the mystery.

Whispered Reports.

Never in history has so much police work been devoted to a single crime.

None of those in authority will discuss the case for publication at this date and certainly no trained investigator would risk his reputation on predictions of the time, manner, and place of any solution that may be in prospect.

There have been whispered reports here of late, however, that some of the "ransom" bills have been found and one version had it that the search for the long fugitive kidnaper and his pals, if he had any—had been narrowed down to the Harlem section of Manhattan. Some of the bills are reported to have made their appearance there, the first of them several weeks ago. Another of the bills is reported to have turned up in a little town just across the Connecticut line from New York. Inspector Lyon, a close mouthed veteran of the service and little given to boasting, has no hesitancy in saying he is convinced that the case is going to be "cracked wide open"—just when he does not say.

Predicts Clean Up.

"We are going to break this case," he said the other day. "The other side has been getting the breaks, so far, but our time is coming and we shall eventually solve the case—clean it up. More police work has been done on the Lindbergh case to date than any other criminal case in history, so far as I know. But we are not through yet!"

Police headquarters in New York is the clearing house for the investigation by the three units, the New York police, the New Jersey state police, and the Department of Justice. It is here that countless clews are sifted and discussed and plans laid for the future. The progress of the investigation, which is proceeding night and day, is of necessity being kept quiet, but the investigators have reason to believe that the case will be solved and that before not many more weeks—or days—have passed.

Literally thousands of clews have been investigated since that fateful night of March 1, 1932, when the kidnaper stole the famous flyer's little sleeping son from his cradle on the second floor of the Lindbergh home at Sourland mountain, near Hopewell, N. J., but if any one of them has brought anything in the way of a promising lead to ultimate solution of the mystery the authorities have not chosen to make public announcement of the fact.

Pennsylvania Declares Open Season on Beaver

Harrisburg, Pa.—An open season has been declared in Pennsylvania this year on beaver in an effort to reduce the estimated annual loss of $20,000 to property owners as a result of the animals' depredations.

Twenty-four pairs of beaver were brought into the state in 1920, and the state board of game commissioners asserts that now there are 15,000 beaver in the state.

What's in a Name? A Fortune in This

Paris.—A million two hundred thousand francs is what there was in a name that just has been sold here.

The name that brought this amount with the state taxes and expenses is the "Leon Chandon" champagne mark. The price is believed to be the highest paid for a trade name in the history of the champagne business.

The firm of Leon Chandon was created in 1892 and at that time sold annually about 10,000 bottles of champagne. By 1910 the output had reached beyond the million-bottle amount, and the new purchasers of the name are making extensive plans to promote the sale of their wares throughout the world.

Cooper's Hawk Catches Its Prey on the Wing

Scientists refer to the Cooper's hawk as an "accipiter," or a species of hawk which catches its prey in the air. Its ability to judge the speed of flying birds, or rabbits bounding along the ground, and to intercept them with its claws, is declared to be uncanny.

Instances have been cited of these hawks darting from a low limb and capturing the Bob White and ruffed grouse when those speedy game birds were going "wide open" and dodging about in dense cover. The Cooper's hawk is known as the partridge hawk and "big blue darter" for that reason.

An equally significant title which has been applied to this hawk is "chicken hawk," and this is considered by ornithologists as quite appropriate. It rarely soars high overhead around the barnyard when hungry for chicken meat, but just dashes into the hen yard from a low altitude and carries off a good-sized Rhode Island Red with little difficulty.

The Cooper's hawk has a wing spread of from 30 to 36 inches, but may be identified most readily by its comparatively long tail, which is somewhat rounded at the tip. Like the sharp-shinned hawk, it flies low with a succession of alternate flappings of its short rounded wings and short soarings. In this respect and because of its quite similar size, the seldom harmful marsh hawk may be mistaken for the Cooper's, but the former has a distinctive white rump.

Small Error Remains in Old Gregorian Calendar

The old Julian calendar, which simply added a day to every fourth year, gave the years an average length of 365¼. But this is too long by eleven minutes and fourteen seconds, an error which would accumulate in 400 years to about three days. By the time Pope Gregory XIII promulgated his calendar reform in 1582 the error amounted to some ten days.

This error was corrected by simply omitting these days, and it was ordained that thereafter the centurial years should contain only 365 days, except when the number of the year was exactly divisible by 400. Thus the year 1600 was a leap year, but not 1700, 1800 and 1900.

By this provision the length of the Gregorian year averages 365 days 5 hours 49 minutes and 12 seconds. There remains a small error still, but it will not amount to a day in 3,000 years.

The End of Mr. Jumbo

Barnum's celebrated Jumbo, the largest elephant in the world, was the victim of a railroad accident on September 15, 1885. He was being led along a track to a circus car after an exhibition at St. Thomas, Ontario, when a freight train struck and killed him.

"Of course, I don't know," said the sarcastic boarder, "but it strikes me that this chicken—"

"What's the matter with the chicken?" interrupted the landlady, who was already very hot from her labors in the kitchen.

The Panama canal can accommodate any ship afloat, being 110 feet wide in the lock chambers. The largest vessel in operation is the S. S. Majestic, 100 feet 1 inch wide. The S. S. Leviathan is the widest American vessel and has a breadth of 100 feet 3 inches.

Winners Announced In Fishing Contest

The big fish prize contest which has been in progress at the Sweeney and Schonger store since the opening of the trout season closed October 1.

Monthly prizes have been awarded for the largest fish caught each month and with the close of the contest awards were made for the largest fish in each class caught during the season.

The winning trout for the season was a German brown caught on live bait in the reservoir by J. Fitzpatrick of Glen street. It was 26¾ inches long and weighed seven pounds. The winner receives a Shakespeare rod and reel.

In the pickerel class first place for the season went to Al Weyhe of 207 Hurley avenue. He entered a pike which measured 26 inches long and weighed six pounds and eight ounces. It was caught in Esopus Lake.

Weyhe also caught a bass of the same weight, but as two season prizes are not given to one person the prize for the largest bass entered during the season went to Ken Williams of the post office force. His bass weighed five pounds and ten ounces and was caught at Legg's Mills.

The season prizes for bass and pickerel were complete casting outfits, including Shakespeare rod, reel, line, tackle box, etc.

Sweeney and Schonger expect to conduct another contest, beginning with the opening of the trout season in 1934.

Safety Pin Is Ancient

Safety pins, instead of being a modern invention, as most people suppose, are so old that their origin is lost in the mists of antiquity. The ancient safety pins were made of bronze—an alloy of copper and tin. It was at a comparatively late date that men learned how to make a fire hot enough to smelt iron and make steel. Most of our safety pins are still made of brass. Iron or steel if buried in the ground will turn into rust in a few years and be destroyed, but bronze will last almost forever. Articles of bronze which were left by the Vikings of Scandinavia have been dug up in Ireland only recently. Among them was a religious lamp.

Oldest University in the World

The Mosque of Al-Azhar in the city of Cairo supplies Egypt with its ministers of religion and its exponents of Moslem law, and is the oldest university in the world. Centuries before Oxford and Cambridge became the centers of learning the sheikhs of Al-Azhar were expounding the principles of law and religion for pupils who were to hand them on in all the territories where the sword of Islam was victorious. Since then it has always remained the mountainhead of orthodox Islamic doctrine and the true home of literary Arabic.

Buried Beside His Horse

Within six feet of his favorite mare, Black Bess, the novelist, Charles Henry Cook, more widely known as John Bickerdyke, was buried in a grove of tamarisk trees at Cape Province, South Africa. He was a keen sportsman and also a naturalist. He directed that his tombstone should bear these words: "He loved his fellow men. Here also lies buried his faithful mare, Black Bess."

First Glass Factory

In return for favors rendered during the Revolution, William Pitcairn and others in 1788 were granted by the government the sole privilege of making glass in Connecticut, and operated a bottle factory in Manchester. Most of the ware was taken to Hartford by ox team, then shipped in sailing vessels to the West Indies.
